Justice Dept. Asks Court Fine Barnett $100,000

$10,000 Daily Penalty Urged For Contempt

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The Justice Department asked the federal appeals court Monday to fine Mississippi Gov. Ross R. Barnett $100,000 for defying court orders in the desegregation case of James H. Meredity, a Negro.

In addition, the Justice Department asked for future fines of $10,000 a day until the governor satisfies the court that he is complying with the court's orders.

The court held Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. in contempt for blocking the enrollment of Meredith, 29, at the University of Mississippi. But the court put off imposing any penalties to give them a chance to purge themselves of the contempt.

Brief Charges U. S. Harmed

In its brief submitted to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, the Justice Department said the United States "has suffered immense financial as well as other harm" from Barnett's defiance of court orders in the historic case.

The governor still has not "fully" purged himself of civil contempt, the Justice Department said, even though Meredith now is enrolled as a student at Ole Miss.

The proposed order drafted by the Justice Department named Barnett as an individual, with no reference to his title. It remained in question whether any fine—if imposed—would have to be paid by Barnett personally, or whether the state could pick up the tab.

The Justice Department said in Washington that anyone could pay whatever fine might be placed on Barnett.

It was learned, meanwhile, that should Barnett be unable or refuse to pay the fine he would be treated like any other citizen; that is, he could be subject to having his salary attached or personal property seized for auction.

The Justice Department's proposal made no mention of the lieutenant governor.

NAACP Urges Arrest

An attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urged the court to order the arrest of both Barnett and Johnson.

Constance Baker Motely, chief of the NAACP legal team, said both should be held in custody of the U.S. attorney general until they comply with the court's full integration order.

In an 89-page brief, attorneys for the state of Mississippi reargued contentions advanced in earlier hearing, including the question of the court's jurisdiction.

Mississippi has asked that the case be removed to the federal

Foreign Policy Made Campaign Issue By Ike

BOSTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower questioning the "advisability of a continued silence," Monday night hauled U.S. foreign policy into the congressional campaign.

Eisenhower stopped in Boston to speak for Republican candidate George C. Lodge who is fighting Edward M. Kennedy, the President's youngest brother, for a seat in the U.S. Senate in next month's election.

Shortly before the former president spoke at a "birthday for Ike" dinner it was disclosed that $70,000 in cash and checks—representing collections for the fund-raising dinner—had been stolen from Republican state headquarters.

Most of the theft, some $60,000 in checks, was found near a garage in Boston's West Roxbury section. Police said the robbery apparently occurred over the weekend.

Eisenhower said in his dinner speech that "personally I have been careful...to keep current foreign policy out of partisan debate.

"But when a charge is made for purely political purposes—a charge that indeed should be stated in reverse—I must seriously question the advisability of a continued silence."

Eisenhower then criticized the Kennedy administration's handling of foreign policy.

In his speech, Eisenhower said: "Recently in my home state (Pennsylvania), we were told by the President himself that during eight years of Republican administration our foreign policy drifted aimlessly about. Then he continued in a strange departure from the fact that during the past 20 months a new and firm, forward-moving foreign policy had been developed."

Eisenhower never mentioned Lodge's opponent, but told the partisan crowd of some 6,000: "One candidate has boiled down the high qualifications long demanded of a candidate for the Senate of the United States into this crass, almost arrogant query: Who can get the most of the United States Treasury for Massachusetts?"

Panel Outlines Federal Attack On Retardation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was given a new social target Monday: Help for 5.4 million mentally retarded Americans—three out of every 100 persons in the United States.

The President's panel on mental retardation said some 126,000 children born each year are destined to become mentally retarded during their lifetimes. The panel urged:

1. Set up a domestic Peace Corps to spur voluntary services to the retarded, especially in "deprived and distressed areas."

2. Found a national research institute of learning to investigate basic learning processes.

3. Spend $30 million to provide comprehensive health services for pregnant women and their offspring in low-income groups where there is a higher risk of mental retardation.

4. Establish 10 new research centers to probe biological, behavioral, social and other pertinent and basic scientific areas.

The panel, in a 281-page report, made more than 100 recommendations, explaining that the causes of mental retardation are complex and varied, and a "broad spectrum" attack is necessary to prevent and treat them.

Mrs. R. Sargent Shriver Jr., sister of the President and wife of the U.S. Peace Corps director, served as a consultant to the medical panel, which included two Nobel Prize winners, Dr. Joshua Lederberg and Wendell M. Stanley.

Mrs. Shriver and the other Kennedys have a 43-year-old mentally retarded sister, Rosemary, who has spent the past 20 years in a Catholic institution that specializes in care of such cases.

JFK To Join Ribicoff's Connecticut Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—For a few hours Wednesday, President Kennedy will join the Connecticut campaign of Abraham A. Ribicoff, a former Kennedy Cabinet member and now Democratic nominee for U.S. senator.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said Monday that the President's plane will stop in Bridgeport. The President then will travel by motorcade to Waterbury, passing through Shelton, Darby, Ansonia and Naugatuck.

Kennedy will continue on to New Haven.

There will be speeches in Bridgeport, Waterbury and New Haven.

Kennedy probably will leave Washington in the early afternoon and return the same night.

The Kennedy camp said it was pleased with the President's weekend of campaigning in five states.

Ribicoff resigned as Connecticut governor in 1960 to become secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department under Kennedy. He left that post this year to try for the Senate. His Republican opponent is Rep. Horace Seely-Brown Jr.

Kennedy also will be trying to give a boost to the campaign of Gov. John N. Dempsey, who succeeded Ribicoff and is now running against Republican John Alsop for a full four-year term.

Another national political figure preceded Kennedy into Connecticut. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower spoke on Monday on behalf of Republican candidates at Hartford—a city Kennedy is expected to visit just before the Nov. 6 election.

Yemen Prince Killed In Battle

CAIRO (UPI) — Prince Hassan, son of the self-proclaimed Imam Hassan, has died in an Aden hospital from wounds received in a Yemen border battle, the Middle East News Agency (MENA) said Monday.

In a dispatch from the Yemen capital of Sanaa, MENA said the prince was buried in Lahej.

The agency also reported that Imam Mohammed Badr of Yemen, who was said to have been killed in the military revolt which overthrew his government, is alive in Saudi Arabia, but suffering from a serious wound.

Earlier new military victories were claimed by both rebel and monarchists supporters in the fighting for control of the ancient desert kingdom. The contradictory claims added to the confusion surrounding developments there.

Katanga, Congo Reported Ready To Sign Truce

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. officials said Monday Katangan and Congolese armed forces are ready to sign a cease-fire agreement that would halt troop movements of both sides and ease one source of tension in the Congo.

They said in addition Katanga President Moise Tshombe has agreed to send the head of his gendarmerie to Leopoldville to take an oath of allegiance to the central government.

Diplomatic sources said these reports were the basis for U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson's statement to President Kennedy on Sunday night that recent developments "give us some hope of a solution of the problem in the Congo."

Kennedy held an hour-long meeting with Stevenson in New York on Sunday night.

U.N. officials described latest reports from the Congo as encouraging, but noted that no actual agreements have been signed.

Reports from Elisabethville, capital of secessionist Katanga Province, said the cease-fire agreement was ready for signature Monday morning, but new instructions were received from Leopoldville, the central government capital. Tshombe was insisting also that an amnesty be made part of the agreement.

Joint Conolese and Katangan commissions were reported in agreement also on matters of foreign exchange and revenue.

Under Acting Secretary-General U Thant's plan for Congo unity, Katanga's tax revenues from the huge Belgian-controlled copper-mining concessions would be shared on a 50-50 basis.

Soviets Will Conduct Pacific Rocket Tests

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Monday announced a new series of tests of multi-stage carrier rockets in the central Pacific starting Tuesday, the same day the United States plans a high altitude nuclear test at Johnston Island.

The tests, which will run through Nov. 30, were called to perfect Soviet's space boosters. They will be carried out in two areas, one about 600 miles south of Johnston, and the other 600 miles north of Midway Island.

The Russians warned all airplanes and shipping to avoid the areas.

Tass did not say where the rockets would be fired from, but in two previous series of tests in 1960 and 1961 the Soviets were reported to have fired them from central Russia on flights of approximately 7,500 miles.

Western experts said the rockets being tested without their last stages may have significant military implications.

Last August, Mstislav Keldysh, president of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences, said Western observers could not be permitted to witness Soviet space launchings because of the military nature of the rockets.

Soviet boosters are estimated to produce about 1.2 million pounds of thrust, which is not considered sufficient to send a man to the moon. Experts of the U.S. National Space Administration (NASA) have estimated a booster for putting man on the moon would require 10 to 12 million pounds of thrust.

East German Reds Welcome Polish Leader

BERLIN (AP)—Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's anti - Stalinist Communist leader, arrived Monday for a week-long unity visit with Walter Ulbricht, the head of the East German Communist regime and one of the chief holdovers from the Stalinist period.

Gomulka went right down the Communist line on Berlin in his arrival speech. He denounced "uninterrupted provocations" he said came from West Berlin.

"That is why we are fighting," he said, "for a peace treaty with Germany, in order to do away with lawlessness in the form of of the remnants of the occupation regime, in order to solve the West Berlin problem by turning West Berlin into a free, demilitarized city."

Gomulka arrived with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz by special train at what used to be called the Silesian station. The Communists renamed it East Station because the former German province of Silesia has now been incorporated into Poland.

Gomulka embraced Ulbricht and Cyrankiewicz kissed the German leader on both of his bearded cheeks. They inspected a steel-helmeted, jack - booted honor guard while a band played old Prussian marches.

After a visit to party headquarters and two wreath-layings, the East German and Polish leaders went into conference.

Cuban Raiders Undergo Quiz

MIAMI (UPI)—Federal officers Monday were reported questioning six Cuban exiles about a pre-dawn sea raid on Cuba Saturday in which they sank a Castro gunboat and took prisoner two wounded militia crewmen.

U.S. authorities declined to identify the men held, but exile sources said they were Manolo Quiza, Manola Casanova, Juan Espinosa, Jorge Rodriguez, Roberto Parson and Eddie Moore. All are of Cuban nationality.

The two wounded militiamen whom the raiders plucked from the sea when their patrol boat sank were undergoing treatment in Miami's Jackson Memorial Hospital. They were identified as Sgt. Filiberto Suarez Lima and Cpl. Miguel Cao Mandino. Authorities said Suarez asked for political asylum.

Although the Castro regime in an official statement on the clash accused the "pirate raiders" of firing on an unarmed "pleasure craft," Suarez confirmed it actually was a government patrol boat on a reconnaissance sweep.

President's Father Visiting White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joseph P. Kennedy, President Kennedy's father, returned to the White House Monday for the first time since he suffered a stroke last Dec. 19.

"He will remain here a week," Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said in a surprise announcement.

Salinger declined to discuss the condition of the elder Kennedy, who has been recuperating at Hyannis Port, Mass., since early summer. Earlier, he underwent treatment at the Rusk Institute of Research Medicine in New York.

Moon Shot Postponed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Space officials Monday postponed for 24 hours, until Wednesday, an attempt to launch the Ranger 5 spacecraft to the moon.

The effort was called off when checks of changes made on the spacecraft could not be completed in time to replace the vehicle on top of the Atlas-Agena B booster rocket.

The 755-pound gold-and-silver-plated Ranger 5 is intended to race across a quarter million miles of space in 66 hours, take close-up television pictures and then land a package of instruments to measure moonquakes and meteor hits.

Trouble developed in the payload during a checkout Sunday and it was removed to a hangar for replacement of a component.

Officials said they should be able to rejoin the spacecraft with the rocket in time for a Wednesday morning launching.

Caroline, Pals Provide Ceremonial Cannon Echo

WASHINGTON (AP)—Caroline Kennedy and pals were in for a talking-to Monday for hollering "Bang! Bang!" when cannon went off in ceremonial salute to Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria.

Referring to the shrill accompaniment of the children's voices, Kennedy told newsmen with a grin: "We will talk about that this afternoon."

This apparently meant Caroline and classmates in the White House kindergarten were going to be told in no uncertain terms that when father is pulling out all the stops in greeting to a distinguished foreign visitor, children must not be heard.

There was obviously high excitement in the kindergarten. The class apparently was meeting in a room off the second-floor balcony overlooking the broad south lawn of the White House where an honor guard of troops, a military band,and saluting cannons were posted.

Each time the cannon belched fire and smoke there was an answering cry of "Bang!" from the balcony.

Then, while Kennedy and the Algerian chief of state reviewed the troops and color guard, the military commands were echoed by the kindergarten class.

There was amusement among the press, spectators and even some of the diplomatic corps. But Kennedy and the youthful-looking Ben Bella spoke their ceremonial lines without cracking a smile.

Ben Bella was the first foreign leader to receive the ceremonial salute on the White House grounds.

German Issue Seen Critical By Christmas

High U.S. Officials Brief 500 Editors On Foreign Policy

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities flatly ruled out Monday any Berlin-Cuba deal with the Soviet Union and predicted the German issue may become a first-class crisis by Christmas.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev was said to have indicated that he will resume his push for a Berlin settlement following the Nov. 6 U.S. elections. The Kremlin's idea of a solution—getting Western forces out of West Berlin—is unacceptable to the West.

The fear expressed by U.S. officials is that the Soviet Union may overstep in its next Berlin drive, because the Western Allies are determined not to be pushed out.

It was admitted here, however, that the British do not show as much concern as the Americans over the danger of the German dispute growing acute by the end of this year.

This word was given to some 500 American newspaper, radio and television editors attending a State Department-sponsored briefing by high U.S. officials on foreign policy.

Rusk Opens Conference

The two-day conference was opened by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the closing speaker Tuesday is scheduled to be President Kennedy.

Under the rules governing the semiannual briefing, none of the speakers could be identified by name but the information they gave could be reported in news stories.

State Department press officer Lincoln White put on the record the U.S. rejection of any package deal with Moscow on Berlin and Cuba. Published reports had said the Russians intimated they would ease up in their Cuban activities in return for concessions on Berlin.

White quoted a Sept. 30 statement by Rusk that, "You cannot support freedom in one place by surrendering freedom in another," and added that no Berlin-Cuba bargain had been offered to the United States. If it were, White continued, such an offer "would be kicked right out of the window so fast it would make your head swim."

Three Soviet Notes Delivered

White also reported three more notes arrived from the Soviet Union over the weekend. He sought to dispose of them by saying they dealt with previously discussed matters and apparently ended diplomatic exchanges on those matters.

According to the State Department spokesman one Moscow note repeated past Soviet accusations that the Western powers were heightening Berlin tensions. A second note complained about applications of certain airworthiness standards by the Allied commandants to aircraft entering Berlin.

A third note, White said, repeated Soviet protestations over seizure of a Cuban sugar cargo in Puerto Rico. He noted the Soviet Union already has entered its claim in court there, as the State Department had suggested. He voiced hope that the "long and tedious exchanges" on these measures was now ended.

On Cuba, U.S. officials sought to impress on newsmen what they described as a proper perspective in relation to other international problems.

Specifically ruled out at this time were a U.S. invasion of Cuba, a blockade, recognition of a Cuban government in exile, or creation of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization type inter-

50,000 Fans Cheer Schirra In Home State

ORADELL, N.J. (UPI) —Astronaut Walter M. Schirra, Jr., received a hero's welcome from 50,000 wildly cheering fans in his home state of New Jersey Monday. He told them he was "more shattered by all this than the count-down in the nose cone."

The cool, outspoken spaceman, who made the first 6-orbital flight in the U.S. space program, was easily the calmest man in sight, however, as the crowds went into a frenzy of cheering and applauding in Hackensack, his birthplace, and in Oradell where he grew up.

A crowd of 20,000 lined the 10-mile motoracde route from Hackensack to Oradell and another 30,000 jammed into Oradell—a quiet commuter suburb with a normal population of only 8,000.

As police fought vainly to hold back the crowds of men, women and school children out on a "Hurrah Schirra" holiday, Schirra said:

"I've had a lump in my throat all day, my heart is very full."

Besides the motorcade, his day included a "homecoming" at the River Dell High School football field, dedication of a park named in his honor, numerous awards and gifts and a personal telegram from President Kennedy who told him:

"I am particularly proud of Cmdr. Schirra for the great professional skill and personal courage he demonstrated in his magnificent flight."

Schirra's honors were shared with him by his pretty blonde wife, Josephine, his son, Walter III, 12 and daughter, Suzanne, 5.

With his family, the astronaut departed Monday for Washington where he will meet with President Kennedy Tuesday.

Clouds May Force New A-Test Delay

HONOLULU (UPI) — Thick clouds around Johnston Island Tuesday left only a 50-50 chance that Monday night's scheduled atomic blast would be fired.

The low-yield rocket detonation was postponed 24 hours Sunday night due to "weather," and the weather bureau Monday forecast that towering thunderheads were moving in from the southeast.

The countdown was continuing, the Atomic Energy Commission reported, and will go on until a decision is made on whether or not to postpone the shot again.

The pending U.S. blast was expected to be fired at an altitude of 30 to 40 miles, and scientists said it was doubtful if the fireball would be visible to residents of Hawaii, although the flash is expected to illuminate Hawaiian skies.

Under Acting Secretary-General U Thant's plan for Congo unity, Katanga's tax revenues from the huge Belgian-controlled copper-mining concessions would be shared on a 50-50 basis.

Cuban Raiders Undergo Quiz

MIAMI (UPI)—Federal officers Monday were reported questioning six Cuban exiles about a pre-dawn sea raid on Cuba Saturday in which they sank a Castro gunboat and took prisoner two wounded militia crewmen.

U.S. authorities declined to identify the men held, but exile sources said they were Manolo Quiza, Manola Casanova, Juan Espinosa, Jorge Rodriguez, Roberto Parson and Eddie Moore. All are of Cuban nationality.

The two wounded militiamen whom the raiders plucked from the sea when their patrol boat sank were undergoing treatment in Miami's Jackson Memorial Hospital. They were identified as Sgt. Filiberto Suarez Lima and Cpl. Miguel Cao Mandino. Authorities said Suarez asked for political asylum.

Although the Castro regime in an official statement on the clash accused the "pirate raiders" of firing on an unarmed "pleasure craft," Suarez confirmed it actually was a government patrol boat on a reconnaissance sweep.

Soviets Will Conduct Pacific Rocket Tests

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Monday announced a new series of tests of multi-stage carrier rockets in the central Pacific starting Tuesday, the same day the United States plans a high altitude nuclear test at Johnston Island.

The tests, which will run through Nov. 30, were called to perfect Soviet's space boosters. They will be carried out in two areas, one about 600 miles south of Johnston, and the other 600 miles north of Midway Island.

The Russians warned all airplanes and shipping to avoid the areas.

Tass did not say where the rockets would be fired from, but in two previous series of tests in 1960 and 1961 the Soviets were reported to have fired them from central Russia on flights of approximately 7,500 miles.

Western experts said the rockets being tested without their last stages may have significant military implications.

Last August, Mstislav Keldysh, president of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences, said Western observers could not be permitted to witness Soviet space launchings because of the military nature of the rockets.

Soviet boosters are estimated to produce about 1.2 million pounds of thrust, which is not considered sufficient to send a man to the moon. Experts of the U.S. National Space Administration (NASA) have estimated a booster for putting man on the moon would require 10 to 12 million pounds of thrust.

East German Reds Welcome Polish Leader

BERLIN (AP)—Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's anti - Stalinist Communist leader, arrived Monday for a week-long unity visit with Walter Ulbricht, the head of the East German Communist regime and one of the chief holdovers from the Stalinist period.

Gomulka went right down the Communist line on Berlin in his arrival speech. He denounced "uninterrupted provocations" he said came from West Berlin.

"That is why we are fighting," he said, "for a peace treaty with Germany, in order to do away with lawlessness in the form of of the remnants of the occupation regime, in order to solve the West Berlin problem by turning West Berlin into a free, demilitarized city."

Gomulka arrived with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz by special train at what used to be called the Silesian station. The Communists renamed it East Station because the former German province of Silesia has now been incorporated into Poland.

Gomulka embraced Ulbricht and Cyrankiewicz kissed the German leader on both of his bearded cheeks. They inspected a steel-helmeted, jack - booted honor guard while a band played old Prussian marches.

After a visit to party headquarters and two wreath-layings, the East German and Polish leaders went into conference.

President's Father Visiting White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joseph P. Kennedy, President Kennedy's father, returned to the White House Monday for the first time since he suffered a stroke last Dec. 19.

"He will remain here a week," Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said in a surprise announcement.

Salinger declined to discuss the condition of the elder Kennedy, who has been recuperating at Hyannis Port, Mass., since early summer. Earlier, he underwent treatment at the Rusk Institute of Research Medicine in New York.

Moon Shot Postponed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Space officials Monday postponed for 24 hours, until Wednesday, an attempt to launch the Ranger 5 spacecraft to the moon.

The effort was called off when checks of changes made on the spacecraft could not be completed in time to replace the vehicle on top of the Atlas-Agena B booster rocket.

The 755-pound gold-and-silver-plated Ranger 5 is intended to race across a quarter million miles of space in 66 hours, take close-up television pictures and then land a package of instruments to measure moonquakes and meteor hits.

Trouble developed in the payload during a checkout Sunday and it was removed to a hangar for replacement of a component.

Officials said they should be able to rejoin the spacecraft with the rocket in time for a Wednesday morning launching.

Caroline, Pals Provide Ceremonial Cannon Echo

WASHINGTON (AP)—Caroline Kennedy and pals were in for a talking-to Monday for hollering "Bang! Bang!" when cannon went off in ceremonial salute to Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria.

Referring to the shrill accompaniment of the children's voices, Kennedy told newsmen with a grin: "We will talk about that this afternoon."

This apparently meant Caroline and classmates in the White House kindergarten were going to be told in no uncertain terms that when father is pulling out all the stops in greeting to a distinguished foreign visitor, children must not be heard.

There was obviously high excitement in the kindergarten. The class apparently was meeting in a room off the second-floor balcony overlooking the broad south lawn of the White House where an honor guard of troops, a military band,and saluting cannons were posted.

Each time the cannon belched fire and smoke there was an answering cry of "Bang!" from the balcony.

Then, while Kennedy and the Algerian chief of state reviewed the troops and color guard, the military commands were echoed by the kindergarten class.

There was amusement among the press, spectators and even some of the diplomatic corps. But Kennedy and the youthful-looking Ben Bella spoke their ceremonial lines without cracking a smile.

Ben Bella was the first foreign leader to receive the ceremonial salute on the White House grounds.

50,000 Fans Cheer Schirra In Home State

ORADELL, N.J. (UPI) —Astronaut Walter M. Schirra, Jr., received a hero's welcome from 50,000 wildly cheering fans in his home state of New Jersey Monday. He told them he was "more shattered by all this than the count-down in the nose cone."

The cool, outspoken spaceman, who made the first 6-orbital flight in the U.S. space program, was easily the calmest man in sight, however, as the crowds went into a frenzy of cheering and applauding in Hackensack, his birthplace, and in Oradell where he grew up.

A crowd of 20,000 lined the 10-mile motoracde route from Hackensack to Oradell and another 30,000 jammed into Oradell—a quiet commuter suburb with a normal population of only 8,000.

As police fought vainly to hold back the crowds of men, women and school children out on a "Hurrah Schirra" holiday, Schirra said:

"I've had a lump in my throat all day, my heart is very full."

Besides the motorcade, his day included a "homecoming" at the River Dell High School football field, dedication of a park named in his honor, numerous awards and gifts and a personal telegram from President Kennedy who told him:

"I am particularly proud of Cmdr. Schirra for the great professional skill and personal courage he demonstrated in his magnificent flight."

Schirra's honors were shared with him by his pretty blonde wife, Josephine, his son, Walter III, 12 and daughter, Suzanne, 5.

With his family, the astronaut departed Monday for Washington where he will meet with President Kennedy Tuesday.

German Issue Seen Critical By Christmas

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities flatly ruled out Monday any Berlin-Cuba deal with the Soviet Union and predicted the German issue may become a first-class crisis by Christmas.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev was said to have indicated that he will resume his push for a Berlin settlement following the Nov. 6 U.S. elections. The Kremlin's idea of a solution—getting Western forces out of West Berlin—is unacceptable to the West.

The fear expressed by U.S. officials is that the Soviet Union may overstep in its next Berlin drive, because the Western Allies are determined not to be pushed out.

It was admitted here, however, that the British do not show as much concern as the Americans over the danger of the German dispute growing acute by the end of this year.

This word was given to some 500 American newspaper, radio and television editors attending a State Department-sponsored briefing by high U.S. officials on foreign policy.

Rusk Opens Conference

The two-day conference was opened by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the closing speaker Tuesday is scheduled to be President Kennedy.

Under the rules governing the semiannual briefing, none of the speakers could be identified by name but the information they gave could be reported in news stories.

State Department press officer Lincoln White put on the record the U.S. rejection of any package deal with Moscow on Berlin and Cuba. Published reports had said the Russians intimated they would ease up in their Cuban activities in return for concessions on Berlin.

White quoted a Sept. 30 statement by Rusk that, "You cannot support freedom in one place by surrendering freedom in another," and added that no Berlin-Cuba bargain had been offered to the United States. If it were, White continued, such an offer "would be kicked right out of the window so fast it would make your head swim."

Three Soviet Notes Delivered

White also reported three more notes arrived from the Soviet Union over the weekend. He sought to dispose of them by saying they dealt with previously discussed matters and apparently ended diplomatic exchanges on those matters.

According to the State Department spokesman one Moscow note repeated past Soviet accusations that the Western powers were heightening Berlin tensions. A second note complained about applications of certain airworthiness standards by the Allied commandants to aircraft entering Berlin.

A third note, White said, repeated Soviet protestations over seizure of a Cuban sugar cargo in Puerto Rico. He noted the Soviet Union already has entered its claim in court there, as the State Department had suggested. He voiced hope that the "long and tedious exchanges" on these measures was now ended.

On Cuba, U.S. officials sought to impress on newsmen what they described as a proper perspective in relation to other international problems.

Specifically ruled out at this time were a U.S. invasion of Cuba, a blockade, recognition of a Cuban government in exile, or creation of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization type inter-

Clouds May Force New A-Test Delay

HONOLULU (UPI) — Thick clouds around Johnston Island Tuesday left only a 50-50 chance that Monday night's scheduled atomic blast would be fired.

The low-yield rocket detonation was postponed 24 hours Sunday night due to "weather," and the weather bureau Monday forecast that towering thunderheads were moving in from the southeast.

The countdown was continuing, the Atomic Energy Commission reported, and will go on until a decision is made on whether or not to postpone the shot again.

The pending U.S. blast was expected to be fired at an altitude of 30 to 40 miles, and scientists said it was doubtful if the fireball would be visible to residents of Hawaii, although the flash is expected to illuminate Hawaiian skies.

Supreme Court Rebuffs Appeal By Booksellers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused Monday to hear appeals asking it to spell out further its 1959 decision limiting the conviction of booksellers who offer obscene books.

The appeal was by three New York City booksellers convicted under a state law which prohibits sale, or possession with intent to sell, any obscene books. All three claimed that the prosecution did not prove, as the 1959 ruling required, that they knew the contents of the books were obscene.

The three were arrested by city detectives who purchased paper-backed books.

Unlike Monday's decision, the decree of three years ago set free some California booksellers. The New Yorkers' appeal noted that the tribunal said then it was not ruling on what sort of mental element is requisite in a constitutionality permissible prosecution in such cases.

The New York booksellers asked the court whether the prosecution must "prove knowledge by the accused of the obscene nature of the book alleged to be obscene, as distinguished from knowledge of the contents of such publication."

The high tribunal made no comment in rejecting the appeal by Louis Finkelstein, a store owner, and two clerks, Louis Schaeffer and Harold Zucker. Only Justice William O. Douglas wanted to hear the appeal.

This let stand the finding by the New York Court of Appeals in the case of Finkelstein and Schaeffer that the books were "muck for muck's sake and nothing more."

In this second decision day of the new term, the court also:

—Agreed to rule on constitutionality of a 1952 law which says a naturalized person who resides for three years in the country of his origin automatically loses his American citizenship. The State Department said over 1,000 persons a year have lost citizenship this way.

—Affirmed the antitrust conviction of the Utah Pharmaceutical Association for agreeing to maintain uniform retail prices for prescription drugs. A request for review of a smaller conviction of the Northern California Pharmaceutical Association was turned down, letting the sentence stand. Both associations contended their agreements were wholly local in character and thus outside the antitrust law.

American military command to deal with Cuba.

One or another of these actions has been urged in the course of the public debate over Cuba. The newsmen were told, however, that Cuba does not present a military threat to the security of the United States at this time.

The U.S. officials said the main danger from Cuba is the export of subversion to other Latin-American lands, and in this connection countersteps are under way.

One tactic, according to the U.S. strategists, will be to try to make the Soviet aid to Cuba as expensive as possible both for the Kremlin and for Castro. This can be done, it was said, by strengthening security measures in the Latin countries and by cutting off attempted Castro shipment of provocateurs and insurrectionist materials to Latin countries.

Restrictions on non-Communist shipping to Cuba also are to be tightened, requiring Communist ships to make more of the long hauls to Cuba.

CATANIA, Sicily (AP)—Police said they arrested two men who trained accomplices to steal autos after one pupil tried to sell a car back to its owner.

Catholic Mixed Marriage Laws May Be Eased

VATICAN CITY (UPI)— The Ecumenical Council may ease some of the restrictions applying to Roman Catholics who marry non-Catholics, informed sources said Monday. But the sources said it was unlikely the restrictions would be abolished altogether.

The development was reported as Augustin Cardinal Bea, head of the secretariat for promoting Christian unity, invited Protestant and other non-Catholic observers here to state their "positive criticism" for Catholic practices to help promote Christian unity.

National delegations to the council, after three days of work, submitted revised electoral lists for the 10 key commissions which will debate church policy. The revisions was aimed at eliminating objections to the preponderance of Italians slated for top posts.

Voting on the commission members is to begin at Tuesday's second general working session. The voting was to have started Saturday but a snag developed when a group led by Achille Cardinal Lienart, archbishop of Lille, France, objected to the procedure.

The 10 commissions of 24 members each will study an agenda of 70 subjects, including a draft on "mixed marriages" between Catholics and non-Catholics.

Under present church law a special dispensation is required for such marriages and it can be granted only if there is (1) "grave cause," (2) a written promise of the non-Catholic not to interfere with the religion of the Catholic and of both parties to have all children baptized and educated as Catholics, and (3) "moral certainty" that the promises will be fulfilled.

Several other items on the tentative agenda are connected with the drive by Pope John XXIII to improve relations with Protestant and orthodox denominations.

ALDERNEY, Channel Islands (AP)—The 30-foot trawler Mayfly chugged out of this rocky harbor and put to sea unmanned. Taking another boat, owner Alf Taylor caught the Mayfly three miles out and found her gear shift in neutral, as he had left it.

Kennedys Seek New Hideway

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President and Mrs. Kennedy must give up Glen Ora, their weekend hideaway at Middleburg, Va., but are looking around for another retreat in the Virginia hunt country.

Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said the First Family's lease on the 400-acre country estate runs out Jan. 15 and the owner, Mrs. Raymond Tartiere plans to move back in.

The First Lady is reported to have been shopping around the Middleburg area for another week end home and may even build a place where she can pursue her favorite sports of horseback riding and fox hunting.

The Kennedys began commuting by helicopter to Glen Ora shortly after they moved into the White House. The First Lady has been much more taken with Glen Ora than the President, who prefers to be near the water on weekends for sailing and swimming.

Barnett's lawyers also contended the governor's actions have been in his capacity as a state officer and he has immunity from federal suits.

Goldstein Fails To Take Lures In TV "Debate"

BALTIMORE (AP)—The rival candidates for comptroller of Maryland staged what was billed as a televised debate Monday night.

It turned out to be one-sided. Or each to his own.

David C. Champion, the Republican candidate, offered several lures. But Louis L. Goldstein, the Democratic incumbent, refused to bite.

For instance, Champion said in the prepared - in - advance show (WMAR) "my opponent never takes a public stand unless forced to do so by expediency as he recently did on the slot machine question."

Champion asked if Goldstein was going to fight in the legislature for statewide abolition of slot machines.

In the second round of the debate, Goldstein stood pat on his indorsement of the stand of Gov. Tawes for statewide abolition.

U. S. Protests Czech Arrest Of American

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Monday it has formally protested the arrest of Robert Roy Budway, a Washington gym instructor, in Czechoslovakia on espionage charges.

A spokesman said a protest note was delivered in Prague Saturday, after Czech charges were made against Budway, who had gone to Czechoslovakia to visit relatives.

The United States protested "most strongly" his detention without immediately notifying American authorites. The United States had asked the Czech government on Sept. 11, Oct. 3 and Oct. 6 about Budway's whereabouts and had received no reply.

Storm Hits Siberia

MOSCOW (UPI)—Radio Moscow said Monday a heavy storm tore through the Siberian city of Khabarovsk Saturday, uprooting trees and blowing down cables and telephone poles.

The radio reported that ice 12 inches thick formed on trees and snapped telephone lines.

5,000 Russians Sent Into Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia has now sent close to 5,000 military technicians into Cuba, U.S. officials reported Monday.

This compares with 4,500 estimated to have been in Cuba on Oct. 3 and indicates the Soviet military build-up, which began in mid-July, has been continuing.

Officials said this is about the number of Russian military personnel that would be expected to install new military equipment the Soviet has sent Cuba and to train Cubans in its use.

The equipment includes anti-aircraft missiles, coastal defense missiles with a range of 15 to 20 miles, motor torpedo boats and advanced type MIG jet aircraft.

None of the missiles are believed capable of being used with nuclear warheads, and officials said it is doubtful Russia ever would supply Cuba with any nuclear weapons.

Tawes Renews Equal Accommodations Call

BALTIMORE (AP) — Democratic Gov. Tawes declared Monday night "there can be no room for provincial thinking" in reaffirming his support for public accommodations without discrimination in Maryland.

Referring to the struggle in Mississippi over admission of a Negro to the university, Tawes said in a prepared speech, "We have recently been given a vivid illustration of the damage that can be done to our nation if but one state fails to recognize the rights of all citizens.

"At a time when our country and, indeed, the entire free world is engaged in a life or death struggle with the forces of communism, neither Maryland nor any other state can make decisions without first determining the effect of those decisions upon the nation.

"In a nation that is fighting for survival against a philosophy diametrically opposed to freedom, there can be no room for provincial thinking.

"We cannot possibly promote freedom of equality for all throughout the world unless we embrace freedom and equality at home."

He claimed that because Maryland is a border state, "the actions we taken in the field of human rights influence other sections of the country."

Tawes, running for re-election to a second term Nov. 6, said he did not have to remind his audience that a bill to require equal service throughout most of Maryland failed by only two House votes in the 1962 legislature.

He spoke at a testimonial dinner for Mrs. Verda Welcome, a Democratic Negro member of that house who now is running for State Senate from Baltimore City.

Tawes said passage in the next legislature of a law forcing hotels and restaurants in Maryland to serve all races has been enhanced by reapportionment of the House and a Baltimore City ordinance making equal accommodations mandatory.

The 1962 legislature, with firm support from Gov. Tawes, added 19 delegates to the house so that urban areas will have a majority for the first time.

The governor's presence as main speaker at Mrs. Welcome's dinner pinpointed the Democratic primary break between Tawes and Jack Pollack, Northwest Baltimore leader.

Mrs. Welcome, with Tawes' backing, defeated the incumbent state senator in Pollack's 4th district.

The governor went from the Welcome dinner to a meeting in the 5th District sponsored by Demcrats formerly associated with Pollack and who have proclaimed their independence. Pollack's son-in-law, Paul A. Dorf, is the Democratic candidate for state senate in the 5th District.

Earlier in the day, Gov. Tawes said flatly he will not debate his Republican opponent, Frank Small Jr.

"I have a record and a program," he gave as his reason. "A record made during my four years as governor. The people of Maryland know that record.

"On the other hand, my opponent has no record of any kind of which he can talk with pride.

"My opponent will have to get his public attention on his own merits. He will not be able to use me for his own ends.

Medicine Aided By Space Age

WASHINGTON (AP) — Virginia and District of Columbia doctors were told Monday that medical studies dealing with astronauts are helping everyday medicine.

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb, Brooks Air Force Base, Tex., said the space age is speeding the time when additional medical devices become available for use in ordinary practice.

"Such devices," he said, "may also provide rather interesting information as to whether occupational stress is, in fact, greater or even equal to the stress of domestic living.

"Such information might even lead to the conclusion that it is better for the coronary (heart) patient to return to the factory than to stay at home and face retirement."

Dr. Lamb is professor of internal medicine and chief of the clinical sciences division, School of Air and Space Medicine. He addressed the opening session of the second interstate scientific assembly, sponsored by the Medical Society of Virginia and the Medical Society of the District of Columbia.

About 4,000 physicians are expected to attend sessions of the three-day convention which ends Wednesday.

Two Men Get $3,000 In Stickup Of Diner

BALTIMORE (AP) — A diner was robbed of $3,000 shortly after closing hours Sunday night by two men who asked the operator of the luncheonette to let them come inside to buy a pack ofcigarettes.

One of the men wielded a pistol and ordered Benjamin Kolodny, 55, to open the safe, Kolodny said later the men pushed him down the cellar steps, but he ran out through a side door and saw the men drive off in a black car.

The diner operator said the money stolen included $1,000 in receipts from the store and nearly $2,000 in cash received for money orders. In addition, Kolodny said the men took blank money orders with a potential value of $10,000.

Freight Firm Head Supports Rail Merger

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of a freight forwarding company urged the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday to approve the merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads.

Morris Forgash, president of the United States Freight Co., told two ICC hearing examiners the proposed merger would result in economies and encourage improvement in transportation methods and techniques, especially in "piggyback" service.

This service envolves the shipping of loaded truck trailers on railroad flah cars. Testimony by Forgash was admitted as hearings on the proposed merger were resumed after a month's recess.

Two portions of Forgash's prepared testimony were stricken by the examiners upon objections. Both dealth with Forgash's opinion the merger would eliminate duplicate terminal facilities and other overlapping services and would avert bankruptcy if approved as part of the "Big Three" consolidation plan for eastern railroads.

The "big three" plan involves two other railroad consolidation proposals pending before the ICC — acquisition of control of the Baltimore & Ohio by the Chesapeake & Ohio and merger of the Nickel Plate with the Norfolk & Western.

An examiner has recommended approval of the C&O-B-O plan.

Maryland News In Brief

EDGEWATER, Md. (AP)—Two burglars robbed a general store clerk of $1,500 during the weekend, then pistol-whipped the man and left him for dead.

The store clerk, William Hooper, 62, of Lothian, told police he battled the burglars for three hours before they plunged through a window of the store and overwhelmed him. The money was taken from a box hidden under a bed.

Hooper did not require hospitalization.

BALTIMORE (AP) — State Sen. Frederick C. Malkus, D-Dorchester, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, proposed Monday that Maryland and Virginia control crabbing with a compact similar to that already in existence for fishing.

Sen. Malkus said separate legislation also could do the job but said Maryland's crab industry is endangered because Virginia laws on crabbing are much more liberal.

PARKVILLE, Md. (AP)—James M. Grimland Jr. of Midland, Tex., president of Optimist International, will visit the Optimists of Maryland District 33 on Oct. 26.

The Maryland group will give a dinner in Grimland's honor at the Sheraton-Belevedere Hotel in Baltimore. Ralph C. Smith, president of the Optimist Club in Parkville, announced the visit.

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — A soldier from West Virginia was among five Army men killed in a weekend traffic accident at Aschaffenburg, Germany.

The Army's european headquarters in Heidelberg identified the victim as Specialist 5 James D. Heldreth, 24, whose wife lives in Wallace, Harrison County, W.Va.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Merilyn Hulcher, 45-year-old widow, was choked with a silk stocking and left for dead on her kitchen floor early Monday.

A co-worker who always rides to work with her, Ralph Julian, said he found her as she was turning blue and cut the knotted stocking from around her throat.

Mrs. Hulcher told police a bandit choked her into unconsciousness with the stocking, then fled with $100 from her purse. She was under heavy sedation and in fair condition at Union Memorial Hospital.

Train Discontinued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Monday to discontinue two passenger trains between Huntington, W.Va., and Washington.

"Speed" Mail For Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore became the first major city in the East Monday to have a special same-day mail service for its downtown area.

Assistant Postmaster General Richard J. Murphy, a native Baltimorean, initiated the service in ceremonies outside Baltimore's main post office.

The new service has the alphabetical name of "ABCD"—Accelerated Business Collection and Delivery. Although there are 5,834 businesses in the area, John Q. Public or his wife also may drop letters into the 207 mail boxes marked with a special ABCD sign.

Murphy said Baltimore was chosen for the inaugural service because of the size of its postal operation — serving about 1.5 million people and accounting for receipts of about $20 million annually.

State Marks Poetry Day

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — With a note of hope and optimism for the world, poetry day was observed in Maryland Monday.

Maryland's poet laureate, Vincent Godfrey Burns, headed a program in the State Senate chamber which included reading and singing of several poems.

Burns told the audience, "I know we live in a world of turmoil. . . Man and the United States are facing mammoth problems. We need a confident spirit of courage."

He read the poems, "Microcosm" and "Day of Jubilee" from his book, "Redwood."

Gov. Tawes proclaimed the day "Poetry Day" for the state. His proclamation was read during the program.

Truck Driver Killed In Crash

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—One man was killed and another injured early Monday in the head-on collision of two tractor-trailers on U.S. 40 near the West Virginia border.

Robert J. Strasko, 30, of North Plainfield, N.J., was trapped in the cab of his truck and burned to death.

The other driver, Chester E. Nichol, 51, of Independence, Mo., suffered head and face injuries and possible fractures of both legs. He was listed in fair condition at Washington Hospital.

State Police said Strasko's rig, traveling west on Route 40 about 4½ miles west of Claysville, apparently crossed into the eastbound lane of the two-lane highway.

Court To Review Murder Conviction Of Moorefield Man

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The State Supreme Court agreed Monday to review the murder-conspiracy conviction of John M. Rexroad, Moorefield, one of five men indicted in the death of a Stephens City, Va., salesman in July, 1960.

Rexroad, chared in the death of Eldridge Lee Ritter, 33, was convicted of conspiracy to commit second degree murder, drew a suspended 5-to-18 year sentence and was placed on five years' probation.

The state charged that Rexroad and four companions pulled Ritter's arm back and forth across a broken car window following a drunken argument. Ritter died in his car from loss of blood. Charges against two of the men were dropped and two others were acquitted.

Rexroad's attorneys argued in his appeal that the indictment was "so uncertain and ambiguous it is impossible to determine what crime or offense the accused is attempted to be charged."

They also said no evidence was introduced showing that Rexroad "aided anyone in striking Ritter or entered into any kind of agreement to murder Ritter."

District Legion Meeting Postponed

A district meeting of Mountain District, American Legion, planned Saturday in Grantsville, has been postponed, according to Philmore F. Fleming, district commander.

Mrs. Fleming, who makes her home with a daughter in Anaheim, Calif., became seriously ill several weeks ago.

W. Va. Drivers Point System Starts Nov. 1

Plan Is Similar To Maryland's

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The long-promised "point system" for West Virginia drivers will go into effect Nov. 1.

After a year of study and preparation, Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols said Monday his department was ready to administer the program aimed at curtailing "the state's needless highway death and accident toll."

Nuckols emphasized his department would need the cooperation from law enforcement agencies in the state if the program is to work.

He said a new division, the Driver Improvement Bureau, to be headed by Frank Stuck, a former assistant in the Safety Responsibility Division, would be set up to handle the program. Initially, eight persons will be employed in the division.

The division will record traffic convictions as they are sent in by the 790 traffic courts in the state. Each traffic violation is assessed so many points:

—Any offense which required license revocation on conviction, 12 points.

—Reckless driving, 6 points.

—Racing, 6 points.

—Passing stopped school bus, 4 points.

— Exceeding speed limit, 3 points.

—Improper passing, 3 points.

—Disregarding traffic signals or signs, 3 points.

—Failure to yield right-of-way, 3 points.

—All other moving violations, 2 points.

From the time of his first conviction, a driver faces license revocation if conviction over a two-year span total 12 points.

Nuckols said a driver will receive a warning letter when his "score" is between 6 and 9 points, and a review by the bureau when he accumulates 9 to 12 points.

License revocation is not automatic when a driver reaches 12 points, Nuckols said.

Driver improvement clinics will be set up throughout the state—"probably run by teachers, probably on a straight fee basis"—where a driver can earn "plus" points by attending the clinic and proving he has corrected the habits that led to his convictions, Nuckols said.

At the end of the two-year period, the driver reverts to zero points, but his record, obviously, will be retained.

Nuckols said the public should not think of the program as "a crusade or an attempt to get any particular group of drivers."

"We are doing this for the protection of the public," he said. "It is the few motorists who repeatedly are involved in more than their share of accidents that we must curb."

Nuckols said a survey of 2,212 convictions during September, showed 163 persons would have piled up 12 or more points under the system and another 197 would have had six or more points.

"No wonder people are getting killed," he said. The state has recorded 334 traffic fatalities so far this year, 53 more than last year.

Nuckols also revealed his departmental budget request for fiscal 1963-64. He said he was asking the legislature for $1,604,031, or $300,621 more than the current budget. More than half of the increase would be used for the new Driver Improvement Bureau, with the remainder used to pay for additional equipment, license plates, current expenses, etc.

Nuckols added he was asking for $196,000 for the current budget to make up a deficiency caused by the extra work involved in setting up the new point program and in bringing files up to date.

Right vs. wrong

when you choose stocks and bonds

Maybe you're considering whether or not investing in securities would fit your situation. You might have in mind owning stock to increase your income through dividends or perhaps to give your capital a chance to grow as the years go by. Or you might be thinking of the greater stability of bonds.

Now for the big question: how to go about it?

Wrong: Jump in when the first hot tip comes along.

Right: What's the hurry? Buy securities the way you'd buy anything important—with care. When a company interests you, get all the facts you can—growth pattern, profit record, factors that might affect its future. Most of America's best known companies are among the 1,200 listed on the New York Stock Exchange. This group earns more than 60% of the net profits reported by U. S. corporations. They pay stockholders about 60% of all dividends. Roughly 90% of them have paid cash dividends in the last 12 months.

Wrong: Don't worry about risks. You're bound to win.

Right: There's no such thing as investment without risk. Many things cause stock prices to go up—and down. What's more, a company may not continue to pay dividends on stock or interest on bonds. It's just common sense to keep the risks in mind. But if your company prospers, you may too.

Wrong: Invest every cent you can lay your hands on.

Right: Provide for living expenses and those inevitable emergencies first. Then decide what might be invested. Start in a small way, if you like. One convenient system is the Monthly Investment Plan which requires as little as $40 every three months.

Wrong: Try for a quick killing.

Right: The stock market is no place for get-rich-quick schemes. Set your goals and make them practical.

Wrong: Any broker will do.

Right: Choose your broker with care. They're not all alike. Registered Representatives in Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange have satisfied Exchange requirements for knowledge of investing. Don't expect them to know all the answers. But they can help you evaluate the facts in a sensible way.

Investing may offer you a new interest in life—a way to meet growing expenses or realize some of your family's ambitions in the years ahead. It's well worth the care of starting right.

Court To Review Murder Conviction Of Moorefield Man

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The State Supreme Court agreed Monday to review the murder-conspiracy conviction of John M. Rexroad, Moorefield, one of five men indicted in the death of a Stephens City, Va., salesman in July, 1960.

Rexroad, chared in the death of Eldridge Lee Ritter, 33, was convicted of conspiracy to commit second degree murder, drew a suspended 5-to-18 year sentence and was placed on five years' probation.

The state charged that Rexroad and four companions pulled Ritter's arm back and forth across a broken car window following a drunken argument. Ritter died in his car from loss of blood. Charges against two of the men were dropped and two others were acquitted.

Rexroad's attorneys argued in his appeal that the indictment was "so uncertain and ambiguous it is impossible to determine what crime or offense the accused is attempted to be charged."

They also said no evidence was introduced showing that Rexroad "aided anyone in striking Ritter or entered into any kind of agreement to murder Ritter."

District Legion Meeting Postponed

A district meeting of Mountain District, American Legion, planned Saturday in Grantsville, has been postponed, according to Philmore F. Fleming, district commander.

In letters to post commanders, Mr. Fleming said that due to the grave illness of his mother, Mrs. Minnie Fleming, he must be in California on the day of the meeting.

Mrs. Fleming, who makes her home with a daughter in Anaheim, Calif., became seriously ill several weeks ago.

W. Va. Drivers Point System Starts Nov. 1

Plan Is Similar To Maryland's

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The long-promised "point system" for West Virginia drivers will go into effect Nov. 1.

After a year of study and preparation, Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols said Monday his department was ready to administer the program aimed at curtailing "the state's needless highway death and accident toll."

Nuckols emphasized his department would need the cooperation from law enforcement agencies in the state if the program is to work.

He said a new division, the Driver Improvement Bureau, to be headed by Frank Stuck, a former assistant in the Safety Responsibility Division, would be set up to handle the program. Initially, eight persons will be employed in the division.

The division will record traffic convictions as they are sent in by the 790 traffic courts in the state. Each traffic violation is assessed so many points:

—Any offense which required license revocation on conviction, 12 points.

—Reckless driving, 6 points.

—Racing, 6 points.

—Passing stopped school bus, 4 points.

— Exceeding speed limit, 3 points.

—Improper passing, 3 points.

—Disregarding traffic signals or signs, 3 points.

—Failure to yield right-of-way, 3 points.

—All other moving violations, 2 points.

From the time of his first conviction, a driver faces license revocation if conviction over a two-year span total 12 points.

Nuckols said a driver will receive a warning letter when his "score" is between 6 and 9 points, and a review by the bureau when he accumulates 9 to 12 points.

License revocation is not automatic when a driver reaches 12 points, Nuckols said.

Driver improvement clinics will be set up throughout the state—"probably run by teachers, probably on a straight fee basis"—where a driver can earn "plus" points by attending the clinic and proving he has corrected the habits that led to his convictions, Nuckols said.

At the end of the two-year period, the driver reverts to zero points, but his record, obviously, will be retained.

Nuckols said the public should not think of the program as "a crusade or an attempt to get any particular group of drivers."

"We are doing this for the protection of the public," he said. "It is the few motorists who repeatedly are involved in more than their share of accidents that we must curb."

Nuckols said a survey of 2,212 convictions during September, showed 163 persons would have piled up 12 or more points under the system and another 197 would have had six or more points.

"No wonder people are getting killed," he said. The state has recorded 334 traffic fatalities so far this year, 53 more than last year.

Nuckols also revealed his departmental budget request for fiscal 1963-64. He said he was asking the legislature for $1,604,031, or $300,621 more than the current budget. More than half of the increase would be used for the new Driver Improvement Bureau, with the remainder used to pay for additional equipment, license plates, current expenses, etc.

Nuckols added he was asking for $196,000 for the current budget to make up a deficiency caused by the extra work involved in setting up the new point program and in bringing files up to date.

48,000 Indianapolis Women Join Anti-Crime Crusade To Protect Their Homes

By HORTENSE MYERS

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The pioneer woman who protected her home with a rifle in the absence of her menfolk has a modern counterpart in a new organization of women called the Anti Crime Crusade.

The 48,000 Indianapolis women who have joined this organizatio do not use guns, however. Their most dangerous weapons are spike heels, a good flashlight and a whistle.

The organization developed after a series of purse-snatchings, muggings and criminal assaults in the home in which lone women were the victims. The death of a New York psychologist who had moved to Indianapolis in retirement and was injured fatally by a purse-snatcher, was an igniting spark.

Mrs. Everett Moore, an Indianapolis newswoman, started the organization by calling 30 women and asking them to lunch.

"The first six weeks we just investigated to see what we could do," Mrs. Moore explained. "We started with the aim of making the streets safe for women, but we soon realized that what we were doing was fighting crime."

The Anti-Crime Crusade now has begun to function in several areas which the women hope will achieve not only their original goal but the more positive result of deterring youth from becoming criminals.

Mrs. Marshall Lincoln, the crusade chairman, said the stay-in-schoolers and the court-watchers are two major projects. Another is distribution of a pamphlet written by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Lincoln, which gives specific precautions for women to take in protecting their homes and themselves from criminals.

The stay-in-school committee obtained the names of all children who dropped out of school a year ago and have written to each, offering help in completing their high school work and getting a diploma.

"Many teen-agers do not realize how simple it is to re-enter school and don't know they can attend evening school without paying tuition," Mrs. Lincoln explained. "The dropout rate is one in three. We are asking these dropouts to write to us if it is clothes or money they ned to return to school."

The court-watchers attend sessions of the local municipal and criminal courts daily and make written reports on what they observe. These reports are to be compiled and analyzed after about six months of them have been accumulated.

The Anti-Crime Crusade now has begun to function in several areas which the women hope will achieve not only their original goal but the more positive result of deterring youth from becoming criminals.

Mrs. Marshall Lincoln, the crusade chairman, said the stay-in-schoolers and the court-watchers are two major projects. Another is distribution of a pamphlet written by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Lincoln, which gives specific precautions for women to take in protecting their homes and themselves from criminals.

The stay-in-school committee obtained the names of all children who dropped out of school a year ago and have written to each, offering help in completing their high school work and getting a diploma.

"Many teen-agers do not realize how simple it is to re-enter school and don't know they can attend evening school without paying tuition," Mrs. Lincoln explained. "The dropout rate is one in three. We are asking these dropouts to write to us if it is clothes or money they ned to return to school."

The court-watchers attend sessions of the local municipal and criminal courts daily and make written reports on what they observe. These reports are to be compiled and analyzed after about six months of them have been accumulated.

Car Moving Is Approved

The Mayor and Council, in an unusual action, yesterday approved an order under which it will ask a resident to move his car from in front of another property so a street can be cleaned.

The order said appropriate action would follow if the car owner did not comply.

The action was in answer to a complaint by W. P. Frey, 723 Fayette Street, who said the street in front of his property had not been cleaned for weeks because a neighor's car was always parked there.

In other action yesterday, council appointed F. Patrick Allender to another term on the Housing Authority of Cumberland, this term to expire in October, 1967.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney was authorized to advertise for bids for fencing the municipal baseball field in South End; Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill for bids for group insurance coverage for city employes; and Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder for bids to enclose the sewage treatment plant with commercial fencing.

Council accepted the bid of Cumberland Contracting Company in the amount of $20,390 for resurfacing portions of North Mechanic and North Centre Streets.

Payment of $1,211.35 to Orrie Sensabaugh, the final one for base work on East First Street, Sommerville and Memorial avenues, was authorized.

It appears that the increased use of processed products like the recently developed sweetpotato flake may result in a stable to slowly expanding market for sweetpotatoes in the 1960s, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Bids must be submitted by 10 a.m. Monday, October 22. Work will include grading, installation of catch basins, storm sewer pipes, eight-inch base, combination curbs and gutters and sidewalks.

Guardsmen To Plan New Alert System

A special meeting of the noncommissioned officers of Headquarters Company of the First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, has been called for today at 7:30 p. m.

Capt. Jonathan J. Eckhart, company commander, said the conference is being held to formulate plans for a new alert system for the Guard.

Officer Resigns

A member of the Police Department submitted his resignation to the Mayor and Council yesterday saying that because of the "obselete wage scale" he must seek employment in another field.

Council accepted the resignation of Officer James A. Poling.

LOCAL PHONE CALLS
SAVE FREDERICK FAMILY
283 MILES OF TRAVEL
IN TWO WEEKS

At our request, the Pilgram family of Frederick recently kept a two-week telephone diary of their local phone calls. Then they estimated the total time, money and mileage saved by these calls.

The revealing results showed the phone had saved them 16 hours, $26.70 in expenses and 283 miles of travel. Their record also indicated four good reasons for these savings. Mrs. Pilgram, her husband, and their daughters, Barbara and Penny.

There were calls that conveniently saved trips to the drugstore and the appliance store. Other calls that gave information quickly about Civil Defense and jury duty. Calls like these prompted Peg Pilgram to say, "At our house, the telephone's almost as much a necessity as food and clothing."

What would a telephone diary in your home show? You'd probably find, just like the Pilgrams, that your telephone gives you a great deal for its low monthly cost.

Men's Team Is Winner Of Top Bridge Event

An out-of-town men's team captured the top event in the twelfth annual Mason - Dixon tournament of the Western Maryland Bridge Club, held over the weekend at the Cumberland Country Club.

Winners of the open pair event were William L. Flannery, Pittsburgh, and Paul T. Swanson, Morgantown, who posted a score of 213. Runnersup were Mrs. Margaret B. Sloan and James N. Long, this city, 207½; Mr. and Mrs. Israel Sky, Altoona, 200½; Mrs. Orrin H. Cross, Morgantown, and R. M. Barnhart, Ligonier, 200, and Dr. Paul Castelle and J. D. Paddleford, 195½.

Fifty pairs participated in the qualifying round for the open pair event, with the top score being made by Long and Mrs. Sloan. Other section winners were Mrs. Mary A. Deal and Mrs. Emmett L. Jones, Mrs. J. D. Paddleford and Mrs. James Rexroad and Mr. and Mrs. Sky.

A special pairs game was staged in conjunction with the open pairs championship, with the winners being Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wilkinson. Runnersup were Pauline Turon and Jerry Abranel, of Johnstown.

The closing event was played Sunday, with 17 teams participating in a team-of-four, board-a-match game. The event was won by a Washington team composed of Freda Bentley, Mrs. T. C. Keach, Lew Levenson and Paul E. Neff. They finished with a score of 18.

Placing second was a Cumberland team of Mrs. Samuel C. Dezen, Mrs. Milton Gerson, Robert L. Dezen and Richard D. Schwab. Their score was 17½.

Three Cumberland teams finished in a tie for third place. One was composed of Mrs. John Laughlin, Miss Kathryn Laughlin, Mrs. Madeline Mewshaw and Mrs. B. F. Lewis, the second of Mrs. H. M. Price, Mrs. W. J. Welsh, Norman W. Taylor and John R. Wilkinson, and the other of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Castelle and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Bottorf. East team finished with a score of 16.

In previously announced results, Mrs. Joseph Feldstein, this city, and Mrs. Marjorie Sellers, Altoona, won the women's pairs, and Theodore W. Gray and Edward Sellers men's pairs.

Tournament officials point out that new champions were crowned in the men's pairs, women's pairs and open pairs. The team-of-four event was substituted for the mixed pair event that was staged in previous years.

Car Moving Is Approved

The Mayor and Council, in an unusual action, yesterday approved an order under which it will ask a resident to move his car from in front of another property so a street can be cleaned.

The order said appropriate action would follow if the car owner did not comply.

The action was in answer to a complaint by W. P. Frey, 723 Fayette Street, who said the street in front of his property had not been cleaned for weeks because a neighor's car was always parked there.

In other action yesterday, council appointed F. Patrick Allender to another term on the Housing Authority of Cumberland, this term to expire in October, 1967.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney was authorized to advertise for bids for fencing the municipal baseball field in South End; Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill for bids for group insurance coverage for city employes; and Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder for bids to enclose the sewage treatment plant with commercial fencing.

Council accepted the bid of Cumberland Contracting Company in the amount of $20,390 for resurfacing portions of North Mechanic and North Centre Streets.

Payment of $1,211.35 to Orrie Sensabaugh, the final one for base work on East First Street, Sommerville and Memorial avenues, was authorized.

It appears that the increased use of processed products like the recently developed sweetpotato flake may result in a stable to slowly expanding market for sweetpotatoes in the 1960s, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Street Improvement Bids Asked By City

Bids are being asked by the Mayor and Council for improvement of Wills Creek Avenue from Karns Avenue north a distance of 450 feet.

Bids must be submitted by 10 a.m. Monday, October 22. Work will include grading, installation of catch basins, storm sewer pipes, eight-inch base, combination curbs and gutters and sidewalks.

Guardsmen To Plan New Alert System

A special meeting of the noncommissioned officers of Headquarters Company of the First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, has been called for today at 7:30 p. m.

Capt. Jonathan J. Eckhart, company commander, said the conference is being held to formulate plans for a new alert system for the Guard.

Officer Resigns

A member of the Police Department submitted his resignation to the Mayor and Council yesterday saying that because of the "obselete wage scale" he must seek employment in another field.

Council accepted the resignation of Officer James A. Poling.

Keegan Promises Action On Downtown Traffic

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said yesterday he is in sympathy with traffic problems affecting the downtown businessman and plans to do something about them.

But it won't be done tomorrow, the commissioner added, because the situation will take some study.

Keegan said he would see "how far we can advance by November 1" on the downtown situation after the discussion was set off by a letter from Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who said the Downtown Cumberland Business Association had asked parking meters be removed on North Mechanic and North Centre Streets to improve traffic flow.

Petersen added he had been notified it had been referred to Keegan but also he said, he felt it was a matter for consideration of the entire council. There should be an answer, he said and it should be given a try.

Keegan said he believed the Centre and Mechanic Street problem could be worked out and if the businessmen could wait, the department would do what it can. A problem like that cannot be worked out overnight, compensation must be made for the removed meters and the city must have a place to put the cars, he said, adding, anything he could do for the businessman, he would do, but "right now we are not ready to change traffic to that extent."

Keegan said removal of meters means dollars and cents and has some effect on taxes. Revenue from parking meters amounts to approximately $40,000 a year.

Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder asked if the Police Department is enforcing meter regulations and Keegan replied it was "but not forcing the issue." He also replied in the affirmative when asked if the time limit regulation is being enforced.

Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill recalled that he had previously suggested the 10 or 15 meters from Baltimore to Bedford on Mechanic and Centre streets be removed to help the businessmen and improve traffic flow. He said the businessmen answered one question by requesting meters be removed and added that a schedule for deliveries on the two streets could be worked out.

Keegan said this is his fourth time as police commissioner of Cumberland and he believes the service alley behind Mechanic Street along the Wills Creek flood wall is one answer. He also said if the businessman is going to have business, he cannot have it on a speedway.

Referring to store deliveries, Mayor Earl Chaney said he would have a time limit for such deliveries in the morning and trucks would be off the streets by 10:30 a.m. Too many take advantage of the delivery time allowance and park too long, he added.

Keegan said Chaney was probably right and recalled that once it had been set up so deliveries were finished by 9 a.m. In emergencies, the store owner called the Police Department and it was taken care of, he said.

Mrs. Roeder suggested a trial period and Hill repeated his suggestion that meters be removed and an officer placed on duty to keep traffic moving.

Petersen in answer to a question said not all businessmen belong to the association but those who do have 80 per cent of the business volume.

Parking meters were never intended as a revenue source but once that designated for some use, it becomes just that, he continued. In the case of Mechanic and Centre Streets, Petersen felt revenue would not be affected too much by removal of the meters since "meter feeders" used most of them. He added that the storeowners themselves were the biggest "meter feeder" offenders, using the space themselves and not giving a customer a chance.

He said council also should take into consideration that in the past four years, off-street parking lots in the area had been developed with a capacity of 270 cars.

Vote Machine Being Sought

The Republican State Central Committee has requested an additional voting machine for the LaVale Fire Hall.

J. Wallace Close, chairman of the GOP committee, yesterday in a letter to Matthew J. Mullaney, chairman of the Board of Election Supervisors, cited the need for the machine.

Close stated that under Section 119, Article 33, of the code of Public General Laws of Maryland, at least one voting machine must be furnished for each unit of 500 voters and an additional machine for every fractional part of such unit.

Close said the number of registered voters in District 29, LaVale, according to the registration before the May primary, was 2,789, which means that there should be six voting machines to comply with the law.

It was pointed out that during the primary only five machines were operated at the LaVale Fire Hall, and voters reportedly had to stand in line to vote.

Close said his committee feels that since the registration had increased since the primary and since there are nine Amendments on the ballot for the general election another machine should be added.

Classification Change

The classification of Street Department clerk was changed from Class 7 to 9 effective October 7 in an amendment to the classification ordinance approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

WHO NEEDS 160 MPH?

or Why Studebaker Broke 29 Speed Records*

To be truthful, just three types of people need record-breaking speeds...the police, racing drivers and automotive test engineers. But you and your family do have a stake in the endurance such speeds require!

Even at sixty miles an hour, a car's wheels and their bearings make 770 revolutions a minute; each of the pistons goes up and down more than 2300 times a minute; the rear axle gears mesh 33,000 times! So think of the punishment a car must take at one hundred and sixty!

Said Andy Granatelli, test driver of our 160-plus Avanti: "Can you imagine holding a car wide open in first gear for fifty miles? Well this would be easy compared to what the Avanti had to do to set 29 records!"

Here's what this remarkable endurance means to you: The major chassis and engine components of the Avanti are common to or optional on all other cars from Studebaker in '63, the Cruiser, the Hawk, the Larks.

For example, if all parts of the Lark you buy can stand up to this kind of super-strain, they'll take your hour-after-hour turnpike driving in stride for years. If our new and exclusive heat-dissipating disc brakes will stop this car in a straight line, in a fraction of the distance of conventional brakes—then you and your family are bound to be safer.

To be sure, in making these tests the Avanti (a certified stock car) did set 29 speed records in twelve hours (with speeds in excess of 170 mph), and we're proud of it.

But we are even prouder that these records proved without doubt the superior reliability of our car. We believe this is a major contribution to highway safety... and to yours! Why not take a look at the cars from Studebaker this year—you may save a lot more than just money!

Be sure to ask your dealer about the new 24-month/24,000 mile Warranty on all cars from Studebaker!

U.N. Session May Be A Crucial One

As the United Nations slides into its seventeenth session, the backlog of unfinished business looms before the delegates like a gigantic wall separating the organization from a sense of useful purpose.

Cuba, Berlin, the Congo, unpaid assessments and dues and the annual farce over the recognition of Peiping all point to the impotency of justice in the world body.

Only two events were pictured as credits to the United Nations by the delegates as they made their opening speeches — Algeria and the forced turnover of West New Guinea to Indonesia by the Dutch — and these "victories" are not widely hailed as epitomes of impartial peacemaking.

Algeria is threatened at best with civil war, at worst with a regime sympathetic to the Kremlin and unsympathetic to free elections or popular sovereignty. Inhabitants of West New Guinea. —or West Irian, as it will now be called — will not have a voice in its administration by Indonesia before 1969, and probably not then. There is also the little matter of overt pressures exerted on the Dutch to relinquish territory it had managed for centuries to a country which sides most frequently with Moscow.

A few more Pyrrhic victories like these, and another year of ignoring responsibility in its deliberations, and the United Nations may find additional Western members recalling the words of former President Hoover a few months ago that the only salvation for world peace may now lie in an organization composed solely of free nations.

These Days

Those Marshals

When, on television, I saw the marshals on the Campus of the University of Mississippi, fully garbed with steel helmets, gas masks, truncheons, etc., I wondered where they came from. I have only known two kinds of marshals:

One, the old-time, club-house politician, wide of girth, an enormous, strong, smelly cigar in his mouth, who served summonses and seized the goods of those in trouble;

The other is the kind of marshal who appears on television, the finest of which is Matt Dillon in "Gunsmoke," who always kills the wrong-doer. It is hard to understand how it happens that nobody kills Matt Dillon, but then there would be no more stories.

So, when I saw Bobby's Marshals, looking tall and young and strong, I wanted to make sure that no national police force was being organized. We do have a militia in which every citizen is bound to serve, if called upon. We do have a National Guard in each state, a non-professional citizen's army, which has been of yoeman service in our nation's history. But a national police force smacks of something obnoxious and against the creation of it so experienced a man as J. Edgar Hoover has always fought.

So where did the marshals come from? Well, it seems that when William Rogers was Attorney General, a small force was started to put down riots and such, which did not require the dramatic magnification of the use of the Army.

When the situation on the Mississippi Campus began to look unpleasant, the Department of Justice was able to mobilize quickly 545 men, 339 of whom came from Southern States — Southerners, in fact — who undertook this duty. The components of this body were as follows:

128 Deputy Marshals
320 Border Patrolmen
97 Prison Guards

From the standpoint of maintaining the peace where peace cannot otherwise be maintained, this is an interesting group. They are Federal employes, normally assigned to various duties, who can be swiftly mobilized. It means that if the police in a city cannot handle such a Communist riot as occurred in San Francisco, or a race demonstration such as occurred on the University of Mississippi Campus, such a body can immediately be brought in.

The figure 339 for Southerners is startling but I am assured that it is accurate. It means that sectionalism has degenerated more in the South than one realizes when a national issue is involved.

I am also told that, on the record, the University of Mississippi is not a segregated university. I am told that in the documentation of the case, the university authorities did not take the stand that a Negro would not be admitted. It was the Governor who intervened, either as Governor or as an alumnus, who took this position and therefore the attitude of the Administration is that the Governor is responsible for the fracas.

Another matter which shocked Northern reporters and about which there has been grievous concern was the language of the students, both male and female. Apparently the girls shouted the same cuss words as the boys and an experienced hand told me that he had not heard such cussing in a long time. To Northerners this was particularly astonishing because they had always been told that southern womanhood was delicate and softspoken as well as beautiful. Apparently some of these children need their mouths washed with yellow soap.

Perhaps the students will now settle down to the inevitable business of learning the facts of life as they appear in books which is the main business of a university. Perhaps this will all pass as an unpleasant dream and that they will work at science and engineering and the creation of a pleasanter world.

Nobody expects perfection of the human race and young people are only too often the reflection of past generations, particularly when they are stirred to action by those in whom hate burns where love and pity should dwell.

The Mississippi affair needs to be forgotten, particularly by the students. It occurred; it did much damage; but it should not be permitted to leave a permanent mark upon human relations. The students might take a look at Memphis, close the town ewyx., g.w take a look at Memphis, close at hand, where race relations have taken a good turn and where the town is peaceful and prospering because of it. Much might be learned there, particularly by students in the social sciences.

$3,986,000 Paid To Post Office For Congressmen's Franked Mail

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The biggest check in in history for free mail by Congressmen has just been handed to the Post Office Department — $3,986,000.

Most people don't realize it, but the taxpayers have to pay the Post Office Department for a Congressman's franked mail. Thus a check for $3,986,000 was handed the post office by Ralph Roberts, clerk of the House of Representatives, last week.

This is one million dollars more than was spent for free mail last year and almost three million more than was spent by the 80th Congress which Harry Truman excoriated for do-nothingness.

In other words, the 87th Congress, though it failed in a lot of things, at least chalked up one record — the ability to spend more money on free mail than any other Congress in history.

Note — one thing that increased the mail cost, at first, was the Christmas cards mailed out by "John Birch" Congressman John Rousselot of California. After this column exposed his Christmas-card mailing, however, Postmaster General Day forced Rousselot to cough up $492.62.

No Danger To Haiti

President Kennedy was chatting with President Sekou Toure of Guinea at an official White House luncheon last week about the problems of Africa. Suddenly, he switched the conversation to Cuba.

"What about this story in Drew Pearson's column that there are 200 Guineans in Cuba ready to invade Haiti?" asked President Kennedy. He referred to reports in this column and the Spanish-American press that French-speaking Guineans were in Cuba, ready to infiltrate French-speaking Haiti.

"There are only 18 Guineans in Cuba," the president of Guinea replied. "They are chiefly students." He went on to say that there were a few Haitians who had been to Guinea, become Communists, and adopted Guinean names. He said he was sure that the report of a large number of Guineans being in Cuba was greatly exaggerated.

President Kennedy observed that Sen. Kenneth Keating, Republican of New York, had been exploiting the report that Guineans were poised in Cuba ready to take over Haiti.

This column, which had heard Latin-American diplomatic reports, supposedly authentic, that French-speaking Guinean cane cutters had been imported to Cuba for the purpose of infiltrating Haiti, is glad to correct the error.

Note — President Sekou Toure reported to President Kennedy that his country was sympathetic with the West despite the large number of Communist advisers inside Guinea. Many of these advisers are gradually leaving the country.

Father Of Alaska Statehood

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D., Alaska, as gnarled and grizzled as one of the prospectors who first pioneered the Klondike, has been combing the highways and byways of the 49th state as if he were looking for gold. He is looking for votes, not gold, however, in one of the tough battles of his career.

This is not Gruening's first battle. He has fought many, beginning before the Roosevelt Administration when he was called a Communist by a newspaper chain, sued for libel and won a whopping big verdict.

At about that time, he was editor of the Portland Evening Express in Maine, later came to Washington under the Roosevelt Administration to head up the Insular Affairs which had charge of Alaska, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Hawaii.

In this job he fought more battles — one to give the Virgin Islands more self-rule; another to let Puerto Rico elect its own governor instead of having an outsider sent down from Washington. This resulted in the election of Luis Munoz Marin and the present progress of the island.

But Gruening biggest battle was to secure statehood for Alaska and Hawaii. This drive was intensified after he became Governor of Alaska. No one camped on Senate doorsteps more than the grizzled Governor from Alaska, lobbying for statehood. Finally, Alaska became the 49th state, and Gruening, along with Bob Bartlett, elected its first senators.

Campaigning for election in Alaska is tougher than in any other state in the union. The sparse population is spread out from Nome near the Arctic Circle to Unalakleet on the Bering Sea to Juneau in the south. But the father of Alaska statehood is now making the rounds of that tough election circuit.

This Week's Whispers

Senate GOP Leaders Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who do a lot of preaching about saving the taxpayers' money, have put two photographers on the government payroll. They are Arthur Scott and Clyde Wilkinson, whose sole job is to take publicity pictures of Republican senators . . . . Sen. John Tower, the leaning tower of Texas Republicanism, is having trouble with his ghostwriter, Horace Clay, who ghostwrote the Senator's new book, "a program for conservatives." Clay has been badgered by girl friends and bill collectors. Once the police came right into Tower's office to arrest Clay on a contempt citation. (They later released him.) . . . . George Romney's backers are already lining up political support to run him for President in 1964. Apparently they think he has the governorship of Michigan in the bag — though the election is still almost a month away.

Schools Face Dilemma In Prayer Proclamation

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The principals and teachers in the public schools of the nation face a strange dilemma on Wednesday of this week. Shall they obey the Supreme court of the United States, which has banned any prayer composed, recommended or encouraged by a governmental body for use in the schools? Or shall they obey a proclamation, issued last Thursday by the President of the United States, fixing October 17 as "The National Day of Prayer" and specifying particularly the purposes to be prayed for?

The Supreme Court did not bar voluntary prayer as such in the schools, but did rule that any prayer "composed" and recommended" or even "encouraged" by any branch of the government for use in the classroom must be considered a violation of the Constitution. This ruling, the court said, was based on the First Amendment, which declares that Congress "shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

Congress, however — ten years before the Supreme Court decision in the "school prayer" case —did pass a joint resolution on April 17, 1952, which called on the President "to set aside and proclaim" a suitable day each year as a national day of prayer, on which the people of the United States may turn to God in prayer and meditation at churches, in groups, and as individuals."

Will classes in public schools, therefore, be legally considered as among such "groups"? The Supreme Court said in its decision June 25 that "it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers for any group of the American people." The court also said that the First Amendment was added to the Constitution "as a guarantee that neither the power nor the prestige of the federal government would be used to control, support or influence the kinds of prayer the American people can say."

Way the President's proclamation an attempt to "influence the kinds of prayer" the American people shall use? Was it a "recommendation" as to what the content of a prayer should be on a particular day?

The proclamation contained the following exhortations:

"On this day, let us all pray, each following the practices of his own faith. Let us pray for our nation and for other nations of the world. May we especially ask God's blessing upon—

"Our homes, that this integral unit of society may nurture our youth and give to them the needed faith in God, in our nation, and in their future;

"Our citizens, that they may increase in the desire to promote mercy and justice, peace and freedom, good will and brotherhood; that they may open new frontiers in helping to alleviate hunger, ignorance and disease;

"Our nation, that each new achievement may add to our heritage of faith;

"And our world, that this generation may experience the fruits of peace and may know the real meaning of brotherhood under God.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed."

Could anything be more "official" than the foregoing document? The Supreme Court in its decision last June barred not only official prayer of any kind but also the use of the government's "prestige" to "encourage" the recitation of particular prayers.

The New York State prayer which the Supreme Court barred was referred to in its decision last June barred not only official prayer of any kind but also the use of the government's "prestige" to "encourage" the recitation of particular prayers.

The New York State prayer which the Supreme Court barred was referred to in its decision as having been "composed" by the state because it was written by the State Educational Board and sent to the local school boards with the "recommendation" that they set aside a few minutes each morning to recite it. The full text of this particular prayer consisted of only 22 words. It read as follows:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon thee, and we beg thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

The Supreme Court said that, though this prayer may be "denomiationally neutral," and though its "observance on the part of students is voluntary," it was nevertheless an "official" prayer. The court said that "each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves."

How, then, would the Supreme Court construe a President's proclamation containing religious expressions set forth as the substance of a prayer recommended for use throughout the nation, including the public schools? The language of the preamble of the President's proclamation, moreover, will have to be studied now to determine whether it can be regarded as a part of what the court called a "program of governmentally supported religious activity." The proclamation reads as follows:

"Whereas faith in Almighty God was a dominant power in the lives of our founding fathers; and

"Whereas they expressed this faith in prayer, and in this posture members of the Continental Congress mutually pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor; and

"Whereas each succeeding generation has shared that faith; and

"Whereas in full recognition of our dependence upon Almighty God and for our continuing need of his great blessings, the Congress of the United States by joint resolution approved on the Seventeenth day of April 1952 a provision that 'the President shall set aside and proclaim a suitable day each year, other than a Sunday, as a national day of prayer, on which the people of the United States may turn to God in prayer and meditation at churches, in groups, and as individuals."

"Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States, do set aside and proclaim Wednesday, the seventeenth day of October 1962, as a National Day of Prayer."

May the words recommended by the President for use in prayers be read aloud in the schools? Or may copies be circulated in the classrooms for silent reading? Did the President get a formal opinion from the Attorney General advising him that he could disregard the Supreme Court decision in the "school prayer" case? If so, will the opinion of the Department of Justice be made public?

These are the unanswered questions arising out of a Presidential Proclamation recommending a series of supplications to be used on National Prayer Day by "the people of the United States"—which phrase, of course, includes the children in the schools.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ANTI-KKK—As serious as the situation is in Mississippi, some people in Washington can still uncover some applicable humor. Perhaps it's just as well.

Anyway, jokesters at the Press Club bar have invented a new slogan for the South. It runs like this: "We're against the KKK—Jack, Bobby and Ted."

Another political joke along similar lines involves a new definition of democracy—"the right to vote for the Kennedy of your choice."

PICTURE HANGING — Sen. Gale McGee received a quite usual request from an unusual source the other day. A young man who had worked in the office of another senator and had since returned to college, requested an autographed picture of McGee "to be hung on the wall of the meeting room of the Anderson College Young Republican Club." McGee is a Democrat.

But, political differences notwithstanding, McGee selected a picture of himself, and sent it off to the opposition political club with this inscription: "May your political interest continue and your registration change."

Russian Novelist

By John Crosby

PARIS

The other day a French newspaper reported that another Russian writer, Konstantin Simonov, an enormously popular novelist whose books have sold between 20 and 30 million copies, was next in line for a Nobel Prize. Since the last Russian Nobel prize-winner, Boris Pasternak, wasn't allowed to accept it, I hurried right around to ask Mr. Simonov, who is vacationing in Paris, whether he expected to win the Nobel Prize and whether his government would let him keep it if he did.

Simonov, a pipe-smoking, tweedy, good-humored man, who looks quite a lot like William Faulkner, laughed and said he hadn't the slightest expectation of winning a Nobel Prize. In fact, the first he'd heard about it was in the French press. As to whether he'd be allowed to accept it if he won it, Simonov simply said the occasion wouldn't arise.

We fell to talking about Russian literature in general. Simonov admitted that Russian literature had become more human under Khrushchev than under Stalin. (Remember those Russian films where boy meets tractor, boy loses tractor, boy gets tractor?)

I asked him if Russian writers were as taken up by the anti-hero as American, French, and Italian writers, and I had to explain the anti-hero, a fellow who is buffetted by fate rather than in charge of his own destiny. "There's nothing of that sort in Russian literature," Simonov declared immediately. "Our writers describe all the complexities and difficulties which mankind faces. The hero of our novels is an active, not a passive, fellow. He has his weaknesses, of course, but he surmonts his difficulties by his own efforts.

He rattled off the names of a few young Russian writers whom he admired—Tendryakov, Bondarev, Baklanov, Aksionov, Bykov, none of whom I'd ever heard of — all of whom are creating heroes "who like to see things with their own eyes, to have an active role in their destiny."

Simonov said he'd been so busy writing that he hadn't had time to do much reading of our anti-hero fiction. Among American writers, he likes Hemingway and Faulkner and he was lavish with praise about Salinger, who has just been translated into Russian. "I like 'Catcher in the Rye' very much. Salinger's young people are very comprehensible to the Russians. There's a very deep human base to this book. It affords insights into the human soul. Very pure. My son, who is 24, read it and he liked it very, very much, too. In spite of the great differences between our countries, this novel is very close to the things Russians understand."

I asked him about present literary currents in Russia and he said that, as in our country, Russia was not producing too many novelists.Writers were being attracted to other forms of writing. The young novelists were writing short novels—this in the country that produced such heavyweights as "War and Peace." The young writers wrote realism and the tone in general was more optimistic than the pessimism the Russians were noted for during the nineteenth century.

A few years ago, Simonov wrote a play which was widely attacked in America as anti-American, and was supposed to be especially rough on the American press. I asked him if he were as bitter about the American press as ever and he chuckled:

"That play was not so bad as you might think. There were four American journalists depicted in it and two of them were very good men, including one conservative." Simonov said he enjoyed very close friendship with several American journalists, including Leland Stowe, who used to be a foreign correspondent for the New York Herald-Tribune, and Joseph Barnes, former foreign editor of the Herald-Tribune.

How's the cold war going in his opinion? I asked. "I am not a very good cold war thermometer, but what I would wish most in the world is that the cold war would ease up," he said.

A Life Without Pain Not So Wonderful

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A life without pain is not as wonderful as it sounds. Pain warns us when the appendix is inflamed; a bone is stuck in the throat, or a hot skillet is burning the hand. Now and then a child comes into the world lacking this perception; he is normal otherwise in development, intelligence and emotional stability.

Several years ago a 9-year old boy was brought to the Mayo clinic because of ulcers of both large toes. The story of this child's problem was reported in the Archives of Dermatology.

The parents became suspicious that their son could not feel pain when the boy was 8 months old. He fell against a hot stove and suffered a third degree burn without showing the slightest evidence of discomfort. Meanwhile, he hurt himself on many occasions while crawling but never uttered a peep.

The youngster was walking at 28 months of age and by the time he was 2½, had suffered many cuts on the lips along with burns and lacerations of the arms and legs. Some of these accidents left ugly scars and ulcers.

The Mayo physicians made a thorough study of his nervous system and there was no doubt most of the skin area was numb. When it was pricked, the youngster made no complaint of pain. If anything, the stimulated spot felt itchy or ticklish.

The study showed also that this child could feel pain in certain areas of the trunk and over the back of the head. In addition, there was loss of the sense of touch and temperature in certain regions. The lad's hearing was poor but the senses of smell and taste were normal and he could identify sweet, salty, bitter, and sour substances on the tongue.

In general, the boy was indifferent to the insertion of needles into the muscles. The Mayo physicians are not certain whether he reacted to the application of any painful stimulus or, whether he felt the sensation but did not recognize it as being harmful. The final diagnosis was congenital absence of pain. The youngster should improve gradually.

This absence of response to pain may come on in adulthood also, as in hysteria or schizophrenia. The condition may be associated with brain injury, infection, or tumor, as well as with various types of nerve and spinal cord disorders.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Much has been written about the facility with which the late Edgar Wallace turned out his innumerable mystery yarns, with sometimes as many as seven in the works at the same time.

There was the time, for instance, when one of the big London papers was running a Wallace serial in its pages with the author turning out installments barely eight days in advance. Suddenly, however, the copy stopped coming in. Wallace had flown off to the Riviera for a vacation.

The feature editor panicked, particularly since the latest installment on hand left off with the hero bound hand and foot at the bottom of a fifty-foot hole in the middle of the Sahara desert. "Only Wallace is ingenious to get him out of a pickle like that," fretted the editor. "Where is the blighter anyhow?"

At the last moment, the editor's worries proved groundless. The imperturbable Wallace strode into the office, and with the relieved editor peering over his shoulder, typed the first line of the next installment.

It began, "As our hero emerged from the pit . . ."

No Danger To Haiti

President Kennedy was chatting with President Sekou Toure of Guinea at an official White House luncheon last week about the problems of Africa. Suddenly, he switched the conversation to Cuba.

"What about this story in Drew Pearson's column that there are 200 Guineans in Cuba ready to invade Haiti?" asked President Kennedy. He referred to reports in this column and the Spanish-American press that French-speaking Guineans were in Cuba, ready to infiltrate French-speaking Haiti.

"There are only 18 Guineans in Cuba," the president of Guinea replied. "They are chiefly studdents." He went on to say that there were a few Haitians who had been to Guinea, become Communists, and adopted Guinean names. He said he was sure that the report of a large number of Guineans being in Cuba was greatly exaggerated.

President Kennedy observed that Sen. Kenneth Keating, Republican of New York, had been exploiting the report that Guineans were poised in Cuba ready to take over Haiti.

This column, which had heard Latin-American diplomatic reports, supposedly authentic, that French-speaking Guinean cane cutters had been imported to Cuba for the purpose of infiltrating Haiti, is glad to correct the error.

Note — President Sekou Toure reported to President Kennedy that his country was sympathetic with the West despite the large number of Communist advisers inside Guinea. Many of these advisers are gradually leaving the country.

Father Of Alaska Statehood

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D., Alaska, as gnarled and grizzled as one of the prospectors who first pioneered the Klondike, has been combing the highways and byways of the 49th state as if he were looking for gold. He is looking for votes, not gold, however, in one of the tough battles of his career.

This is not Gruening's first battle. He has fought many, beginning before the Roosevelt Administration when he was called a Communist by a newspaper chain, sued for libel and won a whopping big verdict.

At about that time, he was editor of the Portland Evening Express in Maine, later came to Washington under the Roosevelt Administration to head up the Insular Affairs which had charge of Alaska, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Hawaii.

In this job he fought more battles — one to give the Virgin Islands more self-rule; another to let Puerto Rico elect its own governor instead of having an outsider sent down from Washington. This resulted in the election of Luis Munoz Marin and the present progress of the island.

But Gruening biggest battle was to secure statehood for Alaska and Hawaii. This drive was intensified after he became Governor of Alaska. No one camped on Senate doorsteps more than the grizzled Governor from Alaska, lobbying for statehood. Finally, Alaska became the 49th state, and Gruening, along with Bob Bartlett, elected its first senators.

Campaigning for election in Alaska is tougher than in any other state in the union. The sparse population is spread out from Nome near the Arctic Circle to Unalakleet on the Bering Sea to Juneau in the south. But the father of Alaska statehood is now making the rounds of that tough election circuit.

This Week's Whispers

Senate GOP Leaders Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who do a lot of preaching about saving the taxpayers' money, have put two photographers on the government payroll. They are Arthur Scott and Clyde Wilkinson, whose sole job is to take publicity pictures of Republican senators . . . . Sen. John Tower, the leaning tower of Texas Republicanism, is having trouble with his ghost-writer, Horace Clay, who ghost-wrote the Senator's new book, "a program for conservatives." Clay has been badgered by girl friends and bill collectors. Once the police came right into Tower's office to arrest Clay on a contempt citation. (They later released him.) . . . . George Romney's backers are already lining up political support to run him for President in 1964. Apparently they think he has the governorship of Michigan in the bag — though the election is still almost a month away.

Schools Face Dilemma In Prayer Proclamation

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The principals and teachers in the public schools of the nation face a strange dilemma on Wednesday of this week. Shall they obey the Supreme court of the United States, which has banned any prayer composed, recommended or encouraged by a governmental body for use in the schools? Or shall they obey a proclamation, issued last Thursday by the President of the United States, fixing October 17 as "The National Day of Prayer" and specifying particularly the purposes to be prayed for?

The Supreme Court did not bar voluntary prayer as such in the schools, but did rule that any prayer "composed" and recommended" or even "encouraged" by any branch of the government for use in the classroom must be considered a violation of the Constitution. This ruling, the court said, was based on the First Amendment, which declares that Congress "shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

Congress, however — ten years before the Supreme Court decision in the "school prayer" case —did pass a joint resolution on April 17, 1952, which called on the President "to set aside and proclaim" a suitable day each year as a national day of prayer, on which the people of the United States may turn to God in prayer and meditation at churches, in groups, and as individuals."

Will classes in public schools, therefore, be legally considered as among such "groups"? The Supreme Court said in its decision June 25 that "it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers for any group of the American people." The court also said that the First Amendment was added to the Constitution "as a guarantee that neither the power nor the prestige of the federal government would be used to control, support or influence the kinds of prayer the American people can say."

Way the President's proclamation an attempt to "influence the kinds of prayer" the American people shall use? Was it a "recommendation" as to what the content of a prayer should be on a particular day?

The proclamation contained the following exhortations:

"On this day, let us all pray, each following the practices of his own faith. Let us pray for our nation and for other nations of the world. May we especially ask God's blessing upon—

"Our homes, that this integral unit of society may nurture our youth and give to them the needed faith in God, in our nation, and in their future;

"Our citizens, that they may increase in the desire to promote mercy and justice, peace and freedom, good will and brotherhood; that they may open new frontiers in helping to alleviate hunger, ignorance and disease;

"Our nation, that each new achievement may add to our heritage of faith;

"And our world, that this generation may experience the fruits of peace and may know the real meaning of brotherhood under God.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed."

Could anything be more "official" than the foregoing document? The Supreme Court in its decision last June barred not only official prayer of any kind but also the use of the government's "prestige" to "encourage" the recitation of particular prayers.

The New York State prayer which the Supreme Court barred was referred to in its decision last June barred not only official prayer of any kind but also the use of the government's "prestige" to "encourage" the recitation of particular prayers.

The New York State prayer which the Supreme Court barred was referred to in its decision as having been "composed" by the state because it was written by the State Educational Board and sent to the local school boards with the "recommendation" that they set aside a few minutes each morning to recite it. The full text of this particular prayer consisted of only 22 words. It read as follows:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon thee, and we beg thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

The Supreme Court said that, though this prayer may be "denomiationally neutral," and though its "observance on the part of students is voluntary," it was nevertheless an "official" prayer. The court said that "each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves."

How, then, would the Supreme Court construe a President's proclamation containing religious expressions set forth as the substance of a prayer recommended for use throughout the nation, including the public schools? The language of the preamble of the President's proclamation, moreover, will have to be studied now to determine whether it can be regarded as a part of what the court called a "program of governmentally supported religious activity." The proclamation reads as follows:

"Whereas faith in Almighty God was a dominant power in the lives of our founding fathers; and

"Whereas they expressed this faith in prayer, and in this posture members of the Continental Congress mutually pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor; and

"Whereas each succeeding generation has shared that faith; and

"Whereas in full recognition of our dependence upon Almighty God and for our continuing need of his great blessings, the Congress of the United States by joint resolution approved on the Seventeenth day of April 1952 a provision that 'the President shall set aside and proclaim a suitable day each year, other than a Sunday, as a national day of prayer, on which the people of the United States may turn to God in prayer and meditation at churches, in groups, and as individuals."

"Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States, do set aside and proclaim Wednesday, the seventeenth day of October 1962, as a National Day of Prayer."

May the words recommended by the President for use in prayers be read aloud in the schools? Or may copies be circulated in the classrooms for silent reading? Did the President get a formal opinion from the Attorney General advising him that he could disregard the Supreme Court decision in the "school prayer" case? If so, will the opinion of the Department of Justice be made public?

These are the unanswered questions arising out of a Presidential Proclamation recommending a series of supplications to be used on National Prayer Day by "the people of the United States"— which phrase, of course, includes the children in the schools.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ANTI-KKK—As serious as the situation is in Mississippi, some people in Washington can still uncover some applicable humor. Perhaps it's just as well.

Anyway, jokesters at the Press Club bar have invented a new slogan for the South. It runs like this: "We're against the KKK—Jack, Bobby and Ted."

Another political joke along similar lines involves a new definition of democracy—"the right to vote for the Kennedy of your choice."

PICTURE HANGING — Sen. Gale McGee received a quite unusual request from an unusual source the other day. A young man who had worked in the office of another senator and had since returned to college, requested an autographed picture of McGee "to be hung on the wall of the meeting room of the Anderson College Young Republican Club." McGee is a Democrat.

But, political differences notwithstanding, McGee selected a picture of himself, and sent it off to the opposition political club with this inscription: "May your political interest continue and your registration change."

A Life Without Pain Not So Wonderful

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A life without pain is not as wonderful as it sounds. Pain warns us when the appendix is inflamed; a bone is stuck in the throat, or a hot skillet is burning the hand. Now and then a child comes into the world lacking this perception; he is normal otherwise in development, intelligence and emotional stability.

Several years ago a 9-year old boy was brought to the Mayo clinic because of ulcers of both large toes. The story of this child's problem was reported in the Archives of Dermatology.

The parents became suspicious that their son could not feel pain when the boy was 8 months old. He fell against a hot stove and suffered a third degree burn without showing the slightest evidence of discomfort. Meanwhile, he hurt himself on many occasions while crawling but never uttered a peep.

The youngster was walking at 28 months of age and by the time he was 2½, had suffered many cuts on the lips along with burns and lacerations of the arms and legs. Some of these accidents left ugly scars and ulcers.

The Mayo physicians made a thorough study of his nervous system and there was no doubt most of the skin area was numb. When it was pricked, the youngster made no complaint of pain. If anything, the stimulated spot felt itchy or ticklish.

The study showed also that this child could feel pain in certain areas of the trunk and over the back of the head. In addition, there was loss of the sense of touch and temperature in certain regions. The lad's hearing was poor but the senses of smell and taste were normal and he could identify sweet, salty, bitter, and sour substances on the tongue.

In general, the boy was indifferent to the insertion of needles into the muscles. The Mayo physicians are not certain whether he reacted to the application of any painful stimulus or, whether he felt the sensation but did not recognize it as being harmful. The final diagnosis was congenital absence of pain. The youngster should improve gradually.

This absence of response to pain may come on in adulthood also, as in hysteria or schizophrenia. The condition may be associated with brain injury, infection, or tumor, as well as with various types of nerve and spinal cord disorders.

AGING SPOTS

M. Z. writes: At what ago do the brown aging spots appear on the hands?

REPLY

Usually after 50 but earlier in those who age prematurely. Overexposure to the sun for many years may bring out these spots sooner than usual.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Much has been written about the facility with which the late Edgar Wallace turned out his innumerable mystery yarns, with sometimes as many as seven in the works at the same time.

There was the time, for instance, when one of the big London papers was running a Wallace serial in its pages with the author turning out installments barely eight days in advance. Suddenly, however, the copy stopped coming in. Wallace had flown off to the Riviera for a vacation.

The feature editor panicked, particularly since the latest installment on hand left off with the hero bound hand and foot at the bottom of a fifty-foot hole in the middle of the Sahara desert. "Only Wallace is ingenious to get him out of a pickle like that," fretted the editor. "Where is the blighter anyhow?"

At the last moment, the editor's worries proved groundless. The imperturbable Wallace strode into the office, and with the relieved editor peering over his shoulder, typed the first line of the next installment.

It began, "As our hero emerged from the pit . . ."

Russian Novelist

PARIS

The other day a French newspaper reported that another Russian writer, Konstantin Simonov, an enormously popular novelist whose books have sold between 20 and 30 million copies, was next in line for a Nobel Prize. Since the last Russian Nobel prize-winner, Boris Pasternak, wasn't allowed to accept it, I hurried right around to ask Mr. Simonov, who is vacationing in Paris, whether he expected to win the Nobel Prize and whether his government would let him keep it if he did.

Simonov, a pipe-smoking, tweedy, good-humored man, who looks quite a lot like William Faulkner, laughed and said he hadn't the slightest expectation of winning a Nobel Prize. In fact, the first he'd heard about it was in the French press. As to whether he'd be allowed to accept it if he won it, Simonov simply said the occasion wouldn't arise.

We fell to talking about Russian literature in general. Simonov admitted that Russian literature had become more human under Khrushchev than under Stalin. (Remember those Russian films where boy meets tractor, boy loses tractor, boy gets tractor?)

I asked him if Russian writers were as taken up by the anti-hero as American, French, and Italian writers, and I had to explain the anti-hero, a fellow who is buffetted by fate rather than in charge of his own destiny. "There's nothing of that sort in Russian literature," Simonov declared immediately. "Our writers describe all the complexities and difficulties which mankind faces. The hero of our novels is an active, not a passive, fellow. He has his weaknesses, of course, but he surmonts his difficulties by his own efforts.

He rattled off the names of a few young Russian writers whom he admired—Tendryakov, Bondarev, Baklanov, Aksionov, Bykov, none of whom I'd ever heard of — all of whom are creating heroes "who like to see things with their own eyes, to have an active role in their destiny."

Simonov said he'd been so busy writing that he hadn't had time to do much reading of our anti-hero fiction. Among American writers, he likes Hemingway and Faulkner and he was lavish with praise about Salinger, who has just been translated into Russian. "I like 'Catcher in the Rye' very much. Salinger's young people are very comprehensible to the Russians. There's a very deep human base to this book. It affords insights into the human soul. Very pure. My son, who is 24, read it and he liked it very, very much, too. In spite of the great differences between our countries, this novel is very close to the things Russians understand."

I asked him about present literary currents in Russia and he said that, as in our country, Russia was not producing too many novelists.Writers were being attracted to other forms of writing. The young novelists were writing short novels—this in the country that produced such heavyweights as "War and Peace." The young writers wrote realism and the tone in general was more optimistic than the pessimism the Russians were noted for during the nineteenth century.

A few years ago, Simonov wrote a play which was widely attacked in America as anti-American, and was supposed to be especially rough on the American press. I asked him if he were as bitter about the American press as ever and he chuckled:

"That play was not so bad as you might think. There were four American journalists depicted in it and two of them were very good men, including one conservative." Simonov said he enjoyed very close friendship with several American journalists, including Leland Stowe, who used to be a foreign correspondent for the New York Herald-Tribune, and Joseph Barnes, former foreign editor of the Herald-Tribune.

How's the cold war going in his opinion? I asked. "I am not a very good cold war thermometer, but what I would wish most in the world is that the cold war would ease up," he said.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — For over a week I have been checking on the story that Rock Hudson and Howard Hawks were getting together on "Man's Favorite Sport," and the news finally came to me that Hawks will go to Universal to produce and direct this movie. I understand man's favorite sport is fishing.

Ed Muhl, who makes the announcement describes the movie as a modern farce comedy about a playboy sportsman and a public relations girl. I don't know what happened to all the other movies scheduled for Rock, but this one goes in November right here in Hollywood.

Hawks also wrote the script, assisted by John Fenton Murray and Steve McNeil.

I've seldom heard a more disappointed young man than Nick Adams when he called to tell me his "Saints and Sinners" TV show with Irene Dunne has been pre-empted out of its Los Angeles showing. "What makes me feel so bad is that Miss Dunne is so wonderful as the movie actress with an incurable disease she is sure to be in the running for an Emmy award.

"Of course, the rest of the country will view her, as the blackout is only in the Los Angeles area," Nick told me, "but maybe all isn't lost for Miss Dunne. The re-runs start in the spring before Academy voting time and the voters then can see how great she is."

All those young actresses who were trying to get the young romantic lead with John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara in "Mclintock!" can stop trying now. The job goes to Stephanie Powers, the young actress who was outstanding in "The Interns" and "Experiment in Terror." Stephanie's romantic interest in the movie is Pat Wayne, Duke's son. Yvonne De Carlo plays his mother.

Also just heard that Jack Kruschen, after 10 successful months on Broadway in "I Can Get It For You Wholesale," comes back to play Wayne's sidekick. All I can say, if Kruschen is as good in "Mclintock!" as he was in "The Apartment"—for which he won an Academy Award nomination—he'll be in the supporting role race again.

Bob Hope, on landing in England, went directly from the Queen Mary to the set of "Call Me Bwana" at Pinewood Studio and ran smack into the 8-months-old pink elephant he dreams about (in technicolor) in the movie. Elephant's name is Susie and she's as pink as any nightmare hangover.

In fact, the whole Pinewood Studio has been turned into a menagerie for this African movie starring Robin, Edie Adams and Anita Ekberg. In addition to Susie, there are camels, leopolds, just plain-colored elephants and monkeys. All the livestock was imported when producer Al Broccoli called off the location jaunt to Africa and decided on filming the entire picture in London.

The idyll of Diane McBain's romance with Woody Woods in Hawaii apparently wasn't just a vacation romance. Woods, who is a business executive in Honolulu, and very wealthy, comes here to see Diane next week. He just happens to have a business appointment in Hollywood.

Diane reluctantly came home from Honolulu when Warner Bros., called her back for an "Hawaiian Eye" TV show. It's true she's been going out with other escorts, but a gal as popular as Diane can't be expected to stay home.

Being one of those beauties married to rich men who still wants to act, headaches and all, Arlene Dahl isn't in the least upset that bad weather has postponed the picture she was to star in for her husband Chris Holmes, "Love On a Grecian Isle." Not love, but pre-seasom storms, have made it impossible to shoot the drama off the coast of Greece until winter is over.

"But I'll be busy in 'The Camel Bell'," Arlene tells me, "It's a play by Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts and we open the tryouts in Chicago at the Drury Lane Theatre on Jan. 15." The stage isn't new to Arlene. Her nightclub act was a hit in Las Vegas and she's recently toured in "Roman Candle" in summer stock.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Now Universal knows why British actress Mary Peach was so anxious to fly right home to England the minute she completed her chores in "A Gathering of Eagles." She had some news to tell her husband, film producer Thomas Clyde — she's expecting their first child next spring.

Looks like Dean Martin and Dinah Shore will get together on her Nov. 11 TV show. Dean was forced by laryngitis to cancel the scheduled taped show, but arrangements are now being made for him to go on "live" with Dinah on her pre-Thanksgiving spec.

Word is around that the Billy Barnes Revue at the Coronet Theatre is something no one should miss. Last year several of the unknowns in this show wound up on Broadway.

Terry-Thomas has established an intercontinental commuting record. In a period of two weeks, he's made two trips to London for "Mouse On the Moon," returning to Hollywood in between for scenes in "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World"—and is off again for London for Bob Hope's "Call Me Bwana."

What a pleasure in this day of temperamental stars and closed sets to see a sign "THIS IS NOT A CLOSED SET. COME ON IN." The sign appears outside stage 2 at Paramount Studio where Jerry Lewis is "The Nutty Professor." Patti and Jerry Lewis have invitations out for cocktails and dinner for Margaret and Walter Keane on Oct. 17.

Reports from the Cocoanut Grove are that at the end of the Sammy Davis, Jr., show marking his 33rd anniversary in show business, Vince Edwards jumped on stage and surprised Sammy with a plaque signed by 33 of America's philanthropic organizations.

Bette Davis tells me that when she moved into her New England type home here, even though the furniture is still practically all boxed, she got out some pots and pans and cooked a Boston baked beans dinner for herself and the children.

Joey Bishop is never too busy to lend a helping hand. He's now been made national chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, and has raised thousands of dollars for this dread disease. On Oct. 27, Joey goes to San Francisco to be master of ceremonies for the benefit to be given there.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Secrets Of Charm

You're As Old As Your Muscle Tone

You don't have to be an athlete to keep your muscle tone bright and young. All you need is a gentle, muscle-toning program to stick by as faithfully as a miser does his gold. A muscle-toning program is not to be confused with reducing or developing exercises, either. Body recontouring routines are usually constructed quite differently.

Here's an easy way to keep your muscle tone as young as it should be:

a. Bending both knees slightly, place your right foot so that it is turned out at a right angle to your body — pointing right and parallel to your shoulders. Place your left foot so its entire length touches the right foot and points outward to the left.

b. Raise your arms to the sides at shoulder level with the wrists and elbows relaxed.

c. Forcing your heels to remain on the floor, slowly bend the knees so that they point outward in a line with the feet.

d. Gradually straighten the knees to starting position.

e. Quickly swing the arms forward at shoulder level and curl the torso forward as far as you can without straining.

f. Uncurl and repeat the entire routine three times. Work up to ten counts daily.

I've included more "toner-uppers" in my pamphlet, "Dance Through a Week to Beauty." To get a copy, send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, John Robert Powers, % this newspaper.

The real threat to rural America does not lie in scientific and technological progress. The real threat, says U. S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, lies in a failure to direct the changes that grow out of that progress to meet the real needs and wants of all the people.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — For over a week I have been checking on the story that Rock Hudson and Howard Hawks were getting together on "Man's Favorite Sport," and the news finally came to me that Hawks will go to Universal to produce and direct this movie. I understand man's favorite sport is fishing.

Ed Muhl, who makes the announcement describes the movie as a modern farce comedy about a playboy sportsman and a public relations girl. I don't know what happened to all the other movies scheduled for Rock, but this one goes in November right here in Hollywood.

Hawks also wrote the script, assisted by John Fenton Murray and Steve McNeil.

I've seldom heard a more disappointed young man than Nick Adams when he called to tell me his "Saints and Sinners" TV show with Irene Dunne has been pre-empted out of its Los Angeles showing. "What makes me feel so bad is that Miss Dunne is so wonderful as the movie actress with an incurable disease she is sure to be in the running for an Emmy award.

"Of course, the rest of the country will view her, as the blackout is only in the Los Angeles area," Nick told me, "but maybe all isn't lost for Miss Dunne. The re-runs start in the spring before Academy voting time and the voters then can see how great she is."

All those young actresses who were trying to get the young romantic lead with John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara in "Mclintock!" can stop trying now. The job goes to Stephanie Powers, the young actress who was outstanding in "The Interns" and "Experiment in Terror." Stephanie's romantic interest in the movie is Pat Wayne, Duke's son. Yvonne De Carlo plays his mother.

Also just heard that Jack Kruschen, after 10 successful months on Broadway in "I Can Get It For You Wholesale," comes back to play Wayne's sidekick. All I can say, if Kruschen is as good in "Mclintock!" as he was in "The Apartment"—for which he won an Academy Award nomination—he'll be in the supporting role race again.

Bob Hope, on landing in England, went directly from the Queen Mary to the set of "Call Me Bwana" at Pinewood Studio and ran smack into the 8-months-old pink elephant he dreams about (in technicolor) in the movie. Elephant's name is Susie and she's as pink as any nightmare hangover.

In fact, the whole Pinewood Studio has been turned into a menagerie for this African movie starring Robin, Edie Adams and Anita Ekberg. In addition to Susie, there are camels, leopolds, just plain-colored elephants and monkeys. All the livestock was imported when producer Al Broccoli called off the location jaunt to Africa and decided on filming the entire picture in London.

The idyll of Diane McBain's romance with Woody Woods in Hawaii apparently wasn't just a vacation romance. Woods, who is a business executive in Honolulu, and very wealthy, comes here to see Diane next week. He just happens to have a business appointment in Hollywood.

Diane reluctantly came home from Honolulu when Warner Bros., called her back for an "Hawaiian Eye" TV show. It's true she's been going out with other escorts, but a gal as popular as Diane can't be expected to stay home.

Being one of those beauties married to rich men who still wants to act, headaches and all, Arlene Dahl isn't in the least upset that bad weather has postponed the picture she was to star in for her husband Chris Holmes, "Love On a Grecian Isle." Not love, but pre-seasom storms, have made it impossible to shoot the drama off the coast of Greece until winter is over.

"But I'll be busy in 'The Camel Bell'," Arlene tells me, "It's a play by Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts and we open the tryouts in Chicago at the Drury Lane Theatre on Jan. 15." The stage isn't new to Arlene. Her night-club act was a hit in Las Vegas and she's recently toured in "Roman Candle" in summer stock.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Now Universal knows why British actress Mary Peach was so anxious to fly right home to England the minute she completed her chores in "A Gathering of Eagles." She had some news to tell her husband, film producer Thomas Clyde — she's expecting their first child next spring.

Looks like Dean Martin and Dinah Shore will get together on her Nov. 11 TV show. Dean was forced by laryngitis to cancel the scheduled taped show, but arrangements are now being made for him to go on "live" with Dinah on her pre-Thanksgiving spec.

Word is around that the Billy Barnes Revue at the Coronet Theatre is something no one should miss. Last year several of the unknowns in this show wound up on Broadway.

Terry-Thomas has established an intercontinental commuting record. In a period of two weeks, he's made two trips to London for "Mouse On the Moon," returning to Hollywood in between for scenes in "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World"—and is off again for London for Bob Hope's "Call Me Bwana."

What a pleasure in this day of temperamental stars and closed sets to see a sign "THIS IS NOT A CLOSED SET. COME ON IN." The sign appears outside stage 2 at Paramount Studio where Jerry Lewis is "The Nutty Professor." Patti and Jerry Lewis have invitations out for cocktails and dinner for Margaret and Walter Keane on Oct. 17.

Reports from the Cocoanut Grove are that at the end of the Sammy Davis, Jr., show marking his 33rd anniversary in show business, Vince Edwards jumped on stage and surprised Sammy with a plaque signed by 33 of America's philanthropic organizations.

Bette Davis tells me that when she moved into her New England type home here, even though the furniture is still practically all boxed, she got out some pots and pans and cooked a Boston baked beans dinner for herself and the children.

Joey Bishop is never too busy to lend a helping hand. He's now been made national chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, and has raised thousands of dollars for this dread disease. On Oct. 27, Joey goes to San Francisco to be master of ceremonies for the benefit to be given there.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You're As Old As Your Muscle Tone

You don't have to be an athlete to keep your muscle tone bright and young. All you need is a gentle, muscle-toning program to stick by as faithfully as a miser does his gold. A muscle-toning program is not to be confused with reducing or developing exercises, either. Body recontouring routines are usually constructed quite differently.

Here's an easy way to keep your muscle tone as young as it should be:

a. Bending both knees slightly, place your right foot so that it is turned out at a right angle to your body — pointing right and parallel to your shoulders. Place your left foot so its entire length touches the right foot and points outward to the left.

b. Raise your arms to the sides at shoulder level with the wrists and elbows relaxed.

c. Forcing your heels to remain on the floor, slowly bend the knees so that they point outward in a line with the feet.

d. Gradually straighten the knees to starting position.

e. Quickly swing the arms forward at shoulder level and curl the torso forward as far as you can without straining.

f. Uncurl and repeat the entire routine three times. Work up to ten counts daily.

I've included more "toner-uppers" in my pamphlet, "Dance Through a Week to Beauty." To get a copy, send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, John Robert Powers, % this newspaper.

The real threat to rural America does not lie in scientific and technological progress. The real threat, says U. S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, lies in a failure to direct the changes that grow out of that progress to meet the real needs and wants of all the people.

The percentage of car-owning American families having two or more automobiles is approximately 14 per cent.

350 Observe Keyser Library Open House

Occupies Former Bank Building

KEYSER — More than 350 people visited the new Keyser-Mineral County Public Library on Sunday afternoon when Open House was observed at the new location in the former Farmers and Merchants Bank Building on North Main Street.

The visitors were taken on guided tours of the building by volunteer helpers and refreshments were provided and served by members of the Woman's Club of Keyser.

Mrs. Mary Handlan, regional librarian; Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, local librarian; and Mrs. Molly Shelton, who is the librarian with the bookmobile unit throughout the county, were among the hostesses for the afternoon.

Those inspecting the library were informed there are now 4,625 books on the shelves; 3,065 in the stock on the bookmobile; an additional 5,023 books in the storeroom to be reaccessioned and catalogued; and an additional 2,310 books which will be sent to the local library from the West Virginia Library Commission during the remainder of the year.

The library general, the reference room, the portion for younger children also containing their reading table and chairs, personnel offices, and repair rooms were all open for inspection. The building was decorated with floral arrangements sent by Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Stanley, Miss Faye Hewitt, Keyser Television Company, Romig Drug Company, Leading Florist, Farmers and Merchants Bank, Xi Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Tetrick and employes of the Mineral Daily News-Tribune.

Officers said that among those sending cash donations for furniture were the B&O's CTP Club, the Keyser Parent-Teachers Association, and Mrs. Evelyn T. Shinn. A table for the meeting room was donated by Mrs. Bernard Ladd; a table and fern for the meeting room by Mrs. Thomas Ward, and a table for use in the adult reading room by Miss Myra Nefflen.

Money for chairs was donated by the Keyser Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis Club of Keyser, Xi Iota Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, and the teachers from the Keyser Elementary School who purchased six chairs in memory of the late Miss Leona Gift.

The library is now observing regular hours and will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday; 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday; and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

Annual Tri-State Forestry Field Day Shows Interest In Woods Development

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. —The third Annual Tri-State Forestry Field day, was held Thursday at the H. Allen Kerns Tree Farm, on Pious Ridge, in Morgan County between Hancock and Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

The principal address was made by Lester McClung, West Virginia State Forester, who talked on "Dollars From Your Woodlot." He talked about the opportunity of farmers and woodlot owners for the development of tailor made recreation facilities for the ever increasing number of families taking part in outdoor camping. This section, if they would provide additional tent sights and camp sights near woodlots and streams, he said, would bring greater numbers of campers into the region.

He said private enterprise should build the facilities, as the state cannot keep up with the ever increasing demand.

He cited some examples where enterprising farmers of the state used woodlot by-products to build paying business. Among them were, adding mineral to sawdust and selling it as mulsh packed in cellophane and bundling fire wood in one-night size bundles for sale in Super Markets. City families want a fire in their fire place for a special occasion and are without room to store wood, he observed.

McClung remarked that 20 years ago when he started as a forester for West Virginia, there was but one industrial forester. Now there are over 75 with the number growing steadily.

Master of ceremony was Conway Robinson, Farm Editor, WBAL in Baltimore and the opening remarks were made by Galtjo L. Geertsema, county forester, W. Va. Department of Natural Resources.

The presentation of the Tree Farm Awards was made by Thomas G. Clark, chairman West Virginia Tree Farm Committee; David W. Sowers Jr. Hancock chairman Maryland Tree Farm Committee; and Ralph C. Wible, Harrisburg, Pa., state forester and member, Pennsylvania Tree Farm Committee.

Brooks F. Smith, executive vice president of the Hancock Bank presented the $225. in cash prizes in the annual reforestation contest sponsored by his bank for landowners in nearby, Marylan, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

A large crowd attended and took advantage of the tours of the Kerns Tree Farm to observe at first hand the results of various forest management practices.

Smith said the bank sponsors the contest as an effort to help "turn barren, idle acres into busy, tree growing lands which will aid our regions economy now and in the future as the nation's demands for forest products continue to grow."

The banker pointed out that pulpwood harvests for three mills and sawtimber harvests for numerous sawmills already are "a major factor in the Hancock economy."

Members of the F.F.A. Chapter of Berkeley Springs High School served refreshments and numerous prizes were won by those in attendance.

Winners of the Tree Farm Awards included—H. Allen Kerns; Berkeley Springs; Carl Hull, Hancock and the Glatfelter Pulp Wood Co., Spring Grove, Pa., all for land in Maryland; J. E. Baker Co., York, Pa.; D. M. Bare Paper Co., Roaring Springs and William E. Thompson, Whitefort, Md. for lands in York County, Pa.

Detmold Riflemen Being Organized In Georges Creek

LONACONING — "Detmold Riflemen" are being organized as a Civil War unit of United States Volunteers. Any men in the area who wish to affiliate with the historical group should contact James Doolan and Hugh McKenzie of Lonaconing.

The first group to volunteer in 1862 when President Abraham Lincoln called for volunteers is the distinction claimed by the Lonaconing organization, "The Detmold Riflemen." For the size of their community, the group comprised the largest number of volunteers.

Captain Skilling conducted the drills for this Civil War volunteer group at the old Shaw place, at Moscow.

Recruiting men eighteen years old and older, the new Civil War organization will be the third to be formed in their area. There are the Cumberland Continentals, Company C, Second Maryland Infantry Regiment, U.S.V.; and Old German Artillery, Battery C, Second Maryland Light Artillery, U.S.V., who will be appearing at their first Veterans Day service on Monday, November 12, at 7:30 p. m. here.

Radio is know as wireless in Great Britain. Wireless also was used widely in the United States early in the 1900s.

I BELIEVE that before we can solve the many problems facing our country today, we must first answer this basic question — are we going to turn over more power, and more of our earnings, to an all-powerful administration in Washington to plan our lives and our destinies as they think best, or whether we will stand on our own two feet as free, God-fearing, and responsible Americans to manage our own affairs through our local governments and our elected representatives in Congress in accordance with the Constitution.

Annual Tri-State Forestry Field Day Shows Interest In Woods Development

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. —The third Annual Tri-State Forestry Field day, was held Thursday at the H. Allen Kerns Tree Farm, on Pious Ridge, in Morgan County between Hancock and Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

The principal address was made by Lester McClung, West Virginia State Forester, who talked on "Dollars From Your Woodlot." He talked about the opportunity of farmers and woodlot owners for the development of tailor made recreation facilities for the ever increasing number of families taking part in outdoor camping. This section, if they would provide additional tent sights and camp sights near woodlots and streams, he said, would bring greater numbers of campers into the region.

He said private enterprise should build the facilities, as the state cannot keep up with the ever increasing demand.

He cited some examples where enterprising farmers of the state used woodlot by-products to build paying business. Among them were, adding mineral to sawdust and selling it as mulsh packed in cellophane and bundling fire wood in one-night size bundles for sale in Super Markets. City families want a fire in their fire place for a special occasion and are without room to store wood, he observed.

McClung remarked that 20 years ago when he started as a forester for West Virginia, there was but one industrial forester. Now there are over 75 with the number growing steadily.

Master of ceremony was Conway Robinson, Farm Editor, WBAL in Baltimore and the opening remarks were made by Galtjo L. Geertsema, county forester, W. Va. Department of Natural Resources.

The presentation of the Tree Farm Awards was made by Thomas G. Clark, chairman West Virginia Tree Farm Committee; David W. Sowers Jr. Hancock chairman Maryland Tree Farm Committee; and Ralph C. Wible, Harrisburg, Pa., state forester and member, Pennsylvania Tree Farm Committee.

Brooks F. Smith, executive vice president of the Hancock Bank presented the $225. in cash prizes in the annual reforestation contest sponsored by his bank for landowners in nearby, Marylan, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

A large crowd attended and took advantage of the tours of the Kerns Tree Farm to observe at first hand the results of various forest management practices.

Smith said the bank sponsors the contest as an effort to help "turn barren, idle acres into busy, tree growing lands which will aid our regions economy now and in the future as the nation's demands for forest products continue to grow."

The banker pointed out that pulpwood harvests for three mills and sawtimber harvests for numerous sawmills already are "a major factor in the Hancock economy."

Members of the F.F.A. Chapter of Berkeley Springs High School served refreshments and numerous prizes were won by those in attendance.

Winners of the Tree Farm Awards included—H. Allen Kerns; Berkeley Springs; Carl Hull, Hancock and the Glatfelter Pulp Wood Co., Spring Grove, Pa., all for land in Maryland; J. E. Baker Co., York, Pa.; D. M. Bare Paper Co., Roaring Springs and William E. Thompson, Whitefort, Md. for lands in York County, Pa.

Pierce Baffles Yankees, 5-2, Giants Square World Series At 3-3

San Francisco Southpaw Hurls 3-Hit Contest

Retires First 13 In Order; Cepeda Gets 3 Of 10 Hits

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Billy Pierce returned to his happy hunting ground at Candlestick Park Monday and squared the World Series for the San Francisco Giants with a 5-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the sixth game.

Pierce, unbeaten at home with a 12-0 regular season record in this park, had lusty aid from Giant bats which knocked out Whitey Ford in the fifth inning.

Orlando Cepeda snapped out of a horrible 0-for-12 batting slump with three straight hits and drove in two Giant runs in the nine-hit attack on Ford.

Retires 13 In Order

The first 13 Yanks were retired in order by Pierce and some of the 43,948 fans began to recall Don Larsen's perfect game of 1956 until Roger Maris slammed his fourth Series home run over the right field fence.

Pierce, a stylish 35-year-old workman with a long American League background, had a one-hitter going until the eighth when Clete Boyer doubled with one out and scored on Tony Kubek's single that just eluded a diving Harvey Kuenn in soggy left field.

This sixth game, postponed three days because of heavy rains and an unplayable field, was contested on a damp, soft outfield that had been dried before the game by three helicopters swooping low with their whirling blades.

$4,000 Hangs In Balance

With the 59th Series all squared at three games each, it will be Jack Sanford (24-7) for the Giants against Ralph Terry (23-12) in Tuesday's seventh game battle of right-handed pitchers. About $4,000 will be hanging in the balance on each pitch, because each winner will get about $12,000 and each loser about $8,000.

Pierce's three-hitter was a magnificent job. Rested seven days after losing the third game 3-2, the veteran was in real danger only once. That was in the fifth after the homer. A two-base error by Jim Davenport and a walk to Clete Boyer on an intentional fourth ball, put men on first and second with two out.

Ralph Houk, Yankee manager, chose to stick with Ford as his batter and passed up a chance for a pinch hitter. Ford popped up and the Yanks' one and only big chance was over.

As it turned out, Houk left himself open to the usual second guessers, for Ford went out and was racked up for two more runs and chased in the fifth.

Ford had skirted disaster in the early innings, getting out of trouble with the help of double plays in the first and second, but ran into a problem in the fourth.

With one out in the fourth, Felipe Alou singled on a hot shot off Boyer's glove that rolled to deep shortstop. Ford worked carefully on Willie Mays, his old nemesis, and finally walked him on a 3-1 count.

Pickoff Play Fizzles

Cepeda, who had broken his hitless string with a single in the second, was at bat when Ford suddenly wheeled and tried to pick Alou off second base. Ford hesitated in the midst of his throw when he saw the Yanks were late covering, and finally threw into right center.

Alou scored easily on the error, with Mays taking third.

Cepeda then doubled to right center, scoring Mays, and scored himself on Davenport's ground single into center field.

Once again there was one out when the Giants struck in the fifth. This time it was Harvey Kuenn, hitless in 10 trips in the Series, who finally broke out of it with a single to left. Chuck Hiller dropped a single into center field that fell dead on the soggy turf. Felipe Alou's single to left drove in Kuenn with the Giants' fourth run, bringing up Mays.

Houk let Ford pitch to Mays. Ford justified his faith by getting Willie on a foul pop to Moose Skowron. When Cepeda followed with a single to center, driving in Hiller, Houk decided Ford was finished. Jim Coates mopped up for 2 1-3 innings and Marshall Bridges finished the job without further damage.

Giants Get Boost

Beating Ford gave the Giants a terrific boost, for the chunky little lefty had won more World Series games (10) than any other pitcher and had beaten them in the opener, 6-2.

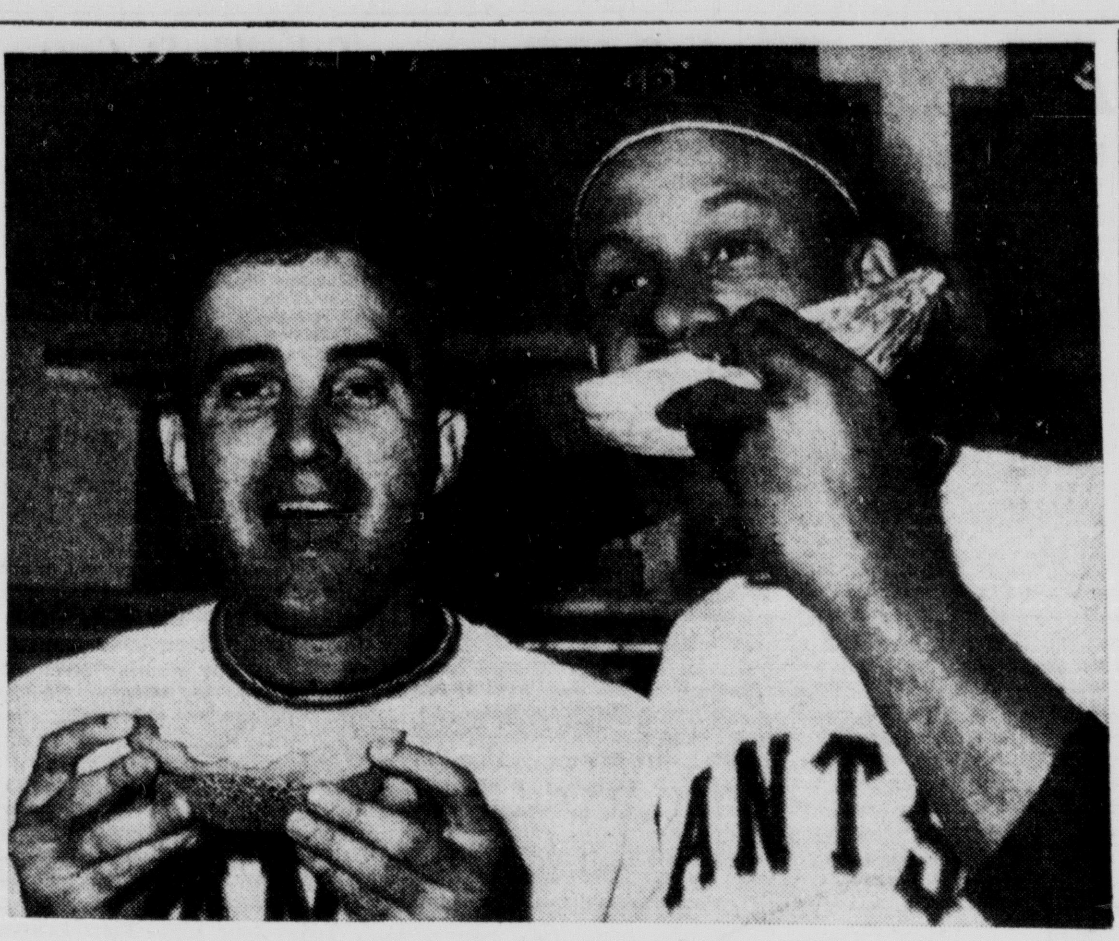
Despite the soggy outfield, the players did not appear to be overly handicapped. They made most of the plays, skidding at times and cutting fancy divots in the turf. Kuenn might have reached Kubek's single in the seventh on solid ground. As it was, he made a dive, got a hand on the ball, but could not hold it.

Mays roamed around center field in his usual style, moving deep to take a long fly by Mickey Mantle in the second and going deep to left center for Skowron's long drive in the third.

Lefties To Return

In Tuesday's seventh game, the Giants will return to their left-handed hitting line-up against Terry, who will be hooking up with Sanford for the third time. Sanford won the second game 2-0 and Terry won the fifth 5-3.

Against Terry, Willie McCovey will play left field in place of Kuenn and Tom Haller will replace Ed Bailey as catcher. The awakened Cepeda will stay in the line-up.



AFTER THE VICTORY — San Francisco's pitching ace Billy Pierce, left, and first baseman Orlando Cepeda, munch happily on melons in dressing room after the Giants whipped the New York Yankees in the sixth game of the World Series yesterday at Candlestick Park. Pierce held the Yankees to three hits. The win gave Pierce a 13-0 mark at the San Francisco park this season and squared the fall classic at three wins for each club. Cepeda accounted for 3 of the 10 hits made by the Giants and batted in two runs. (AP Photofax)

Final Series Game Is Quoted At Even Money

NEW YORK (UPI) —The oddsmakers threw up their hands Monday and made the seventh game of the World Series Tuesday an even-money wagering proposition.

The "pick 'em" odds hold no matter who the starting pitchers are.

Eight Teams Join Faculty Cage Loop

An eight-team Faculty Basketball League was formed last night at a meeting at Beall High School.

The teams are Bruce-Valley combined, Ridgeley, Beall, Allegany, Fort Hill, Mt. Savage, Frostburg State and the Allegany County Physical Education Staff.

There will be 80 participants in the league games.

Another meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m., at Beall High School.

Hardest In Month And Half Dark Says Cepeda's Shots

Calls Wild Throw Big Play; McCovey And Haller Play Today

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"Those were the hardest shots Orlando Cepeda has hit in a month and a half," San Francisco Giants Manager Alvin Dark said of his batting hero in Monday's sixth World Series game.

There was also plenty of praise for Billy Pierce, the 35-year-old left-hander who limited the Yankees to three hits.

Yet Dark didn't think Billy was throwing as hard as he did in beating the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-0 in their first playoff game.

Pierce Was Great

"He pitched great and was putting the pitches where he wanted them," Dark added.

Pierce declared, "The home run pitched to Roger Maris in the fifth inning was a curve. I threw him a fast ball to strike him out in the ninth. You can't relax a minute with the Yankees."

Both Pierce and Cepeda benefited from the rain-enforced rest which caused a 3-day delay in this sixth game that tied the World Series at 3-3.

"We won, so I have to say the long rest helped," Pierce declared, while admitting he was worried on long hits to center field by Mickey Mantle in the second inning and Bill Skowron in the third.

"I turned around and looked at Willie and when I saw he wasn't too perturbed, I didn't worry so much," the veteran hurler added.

Rest Helped Cepeda

"I didn't swing any different than I have been," said Cepeda who has been one of the Series goats until now. "But with the rest I felt good, I felt strong. I used a 35-ounce bat instead of a 33.

"The rest made me feel good. I didn't feel tired anymore."

Cepeda belted a single, double and single in his first three times at bat, knocking in two runs in the 5-2 triumph.

Wild Throw Big Play

The Giants' manager thought the throw into center field by Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford in the fourth inning probably was the big play of the game.

"If I were a pitcher, that would have had to give me a mental letdown," Dark explained.

With one out, Felipe Alou on second and Willie Mays on first, Ford threw on a pickoff play. No fielder was near, and the ball went into right center field. Alou scored and Mays went to third. Cepeda's double followed.

The Giants dressing room was happy but subdued. Dark called a special post-game batting practice for Davenport, Haller, McCovey and Matty Alou to sharpen eyes which may have been dulled by the rain layoff.

Bothered By Cold

Jack Sanford, who will start the seventh game, said he still has the cold which has bothered him throughout the Series.

"But I feel pretty good," he declared. "I sure wish it was game time now, instead of tomorrow.

"I'm about as nervous as I was before my first start in the Series. I'm sure thinking about it—this is something that happens once in a lifetime."

Ralph Houk Never Considered Using Pinch-Hitter For Ford

Terry, Sanford Hurl Today; Wild Throw Explained By Ford

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "He pitched a good ball game. We didn't get any hits. That's about all there was to it."

That was New York Yankee Manager Ralph Houk's calm comment on the 5-2 defeat Monday by the San Francisco Giants and Billy Pierce, who set the Yanks down with three hits.

Houk added, "Whitey Ford pitched good, too, but the ball seemed to go into the holes for them."

Terry To Pitch

The Yankee manager said Ralph Terry, his 23-game winner who is 1-1 in the rain-delayed Series, will face the Giants' Jack Sanford in the seventh game, for the third time since the Series opened on Oct. 4.

Houk has been high in his praise of Sanford, who shut out the Yankees on two hits in the second game and pitched a strong losing effort in the fifth game in New York. But he reminded his questioners:

"We beat him the last time."

Roger Maris, who hit his first home run of the Series for the first Yankee run, said he hit a curve ball. Maris said the field drenched by the worst October storm in San Francisco since 1904, did not affect the game. "It was okay to run in," he said, "although short pop flies just stuck in the ground where they landed."

Mickey Hitting .150

Mickey Mantle, who went hitless in four trips to drop his Series record to 2-22, a .150 mark, was not very communicative either.

"I don't want to say a damn' thing about anything," he said.

Most of the other Yankees were quiet, too, although there was little gloom in the clubhouse of the World Series veterans.

Ford, who started his third game and took his first defeat, said:

"I felt fine, and I thought I looked good. I'm ready to come back tomorrow and work in relief if I'm needed."

The ace left-hander, knocked out in the fifth inning, was the first Yankee to get dressed. He scooted out of the clubhouse quickly.

Explains Wild Throw

Ford said of the wild throw he made in the fourth inning in an attempt to pick Felipe Alou off second base, "I tried to hold up the throw when I saw I had no play. I called the play and went through the count, but when I wheeled and then tried to check the throw, the ball flew out of my hand into the outfield."

Houk said he "never thought for a minute" about pinch hitting for Ford in the fifth inning, when he came to bat with two out, two men on base and the Giants leading 3-1.

"I had four more bats, and Ford is my best pitcher. I'm not going to take out a pitcher like Ford with that many innings left."

Four Giants Take Batting Practice After Sixth Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Manager Alvin Dark sent four men back to the field for batting practice after the San Francisco Giants beat the New York Yankees, 5-2, in the sixth game of the World Series Monday.

The men taking their cuts were third baseman Jim Davenport, outfielder Matty Alou, catcher Tom Haller, and utility man Willie McCovey.

"Some of them haven't swung a bat for a week," said Dark. "And they'll probably see action tomorrow. So I thought they should get in a workout."

Pierce Baffles Yankees, 5-2, Giants Square World Series At 3-3

San Francisco Southpaw Hurls 3-Hit Contest

Retires First 13 In Order; Cepeda Gets 3 Of 10 Hits

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Billy Pierce returned to his happy hunting ground at Candlestick Park Monday and squared the World Series for the San Francisco Giants with a 5-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the sixth game.

Pierce, unbeaten at home with a 12-0 regular season record in this park, had lusty aid from Giant bats which knocked out Whitey Ford in the fifth inning.

Orlando Cepeda snapped out of a horrible 0-for-12 batting slump with three straight hits and drove in two Giant runs in the nine-hit attack on Ford.

Retires 13 In Order

The first 13 Yanks were retired in order by Pierce and some of the 43,948 fans began to recall Don Larsen's perfect game of 1956 until Roger Maris slammed his fourth Series home run over the right field fence.

Pierce, a stylish 35-year-old workman with a long American League background, had a one-hitter going until the eighth when Clete Boyer doubled with one out and scored on Tony Kubek's single that just eluded a diving Harvey Kuenn in soggy left field.

This sixth game, postponed three days because of heavy rains and an unplayable field, was contested on a damp, soft outfield that had been dried before the game by three helicopters swooping low with their whirling blades.

$4,000 Hangs In Balance

With the 59th Series all squared at three games each, it will be Jack Sanford (24-7) for the Giants against Ralph Terry (23-12) in Tuesday's seventh game battle of right-handed pitchers. About $4,000 will be hanging in the balance on each pitch, because each winner will get about $12,000 and each loser about $8,000.

Pierce's three-hitter was a magnificent job. Rested seven days after losing the third game 3-2, the veteran was in real danger only once. That was in the fifth after the homer. A two-base error by Jim Davenport and a walk to Clete Boyer on an intentional fourth ball, put men on first and second with two out.

Ralph Houk, Yankee manager, chose to stick with Ford as his batter and passed up a chance for a pinch hitter. Ford popped up and the Yanks' one and only big chance was over.

As it turned out, Houk left himself open to the usual second guessers, for Ford went out and was racked up for two more runs and chased in the fifth.

Ford had skirted disaster in the early innings, getting out of trouble with the help of double plays in the first and second, but ran into a problem in the fourth.

With one out in the fourth, Felipe Alou singled on a hot shot off Boyer's glove that rolled to deep shortstop. Ford worked carefully on Willie Mays, his old nemesis, and finally walked him on a 3-1 count.

Pickoff Play Fizzles

Cepeda, who had broken his hitless string with a single in the second, was at bat when Ford suddenly wheeled and tried to pick Alou off second base. Ford hesitated in the midst of his throw when he saw the Yanks were late covering, and finally threw into right center.

Alou scored easily on the error, with Mays taking third.

Cepeda then doubled to right center, scoring Mays, and scored himself on Davenport's ground single into center field.

Once again there was one out when the Giants struck in the fifth. This time it was Harvey Kuenn, hitless in 10 trips in the Series, who finally broke out of it with a single to left. Chuck Hiller dropped a single into center field that fell dead on the soggy turf. Felipe Alou's single to left drove in Kuenn with the Giants' fourth run, bringing up Mays.

Houk let Ford pitch to Mays. Ford justified his faith by getting Willie on a foul pop to Moose Skowron. When Cepeda followed with a single to center, driving in Hiller, Houk decided Ford was finished. Jim Coates mopped up for 2 1-3 innings and Marshall Bridges finished the job without further damage.

Giants Get Boost

Beating Ford gave the Giants a terrific boost, for the chunky little lefty had won more World Series games (10) than any other pitcher and had beaten them in the opener, 6-2.

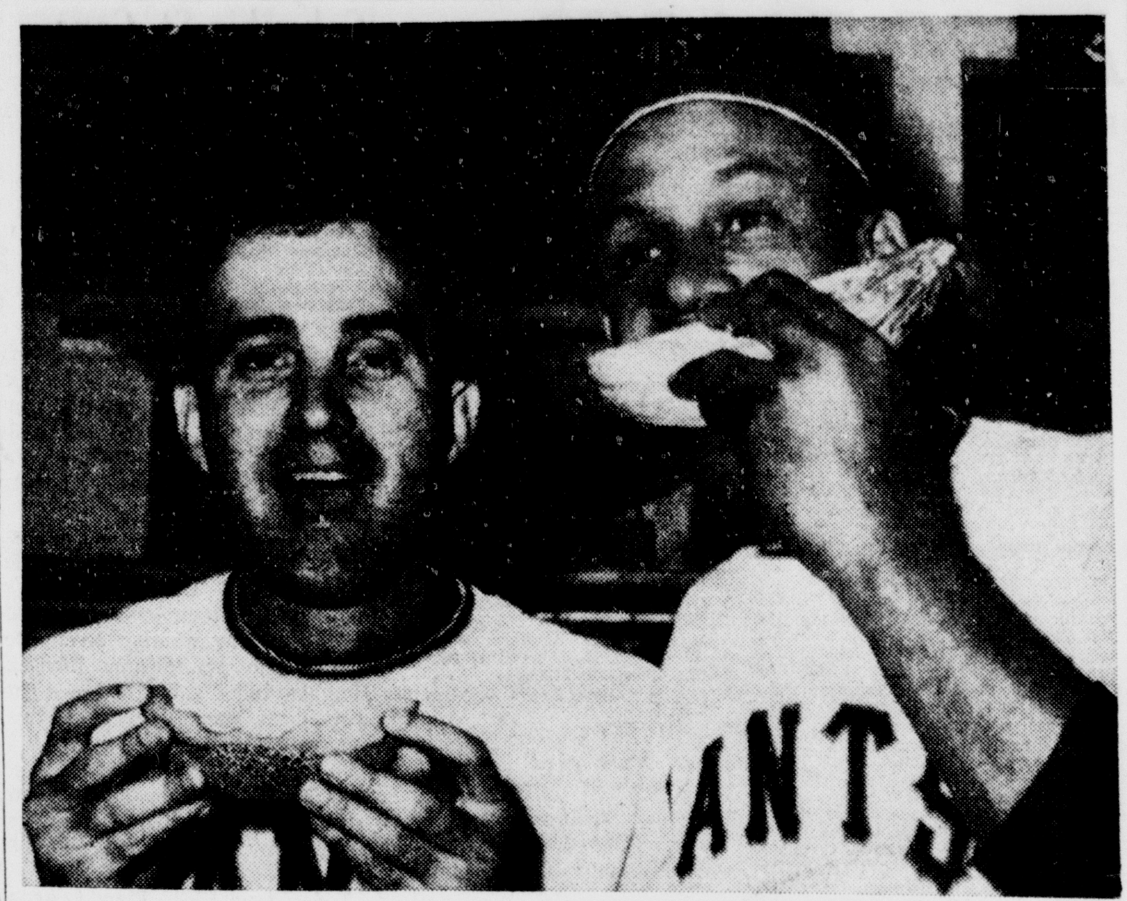
Despite the soggy outfield, the players did not appear to be overly handicapped. They made most of the plays, skidding at times and cutting fancy divots in the turf. Kuenn might have reached Kubek's single in the seventh on solid ground. As it was, he made a dive, got a hand on the ball, but could not hold it.

Mays roamed around center field in his usual style, moving deep to take a long fly by Mickey Mantle in the second and going deep to left center for Skowron's long drive in the third.

Lefties To Return

In Tuesday's seventh game, the Giants will return to their left-handed hitting line-up against Terry, who will be hooking up with Sanford for the third time. Sanford won the second game 2-0 and Terry won the fifth 5-3.

Against Terry, Willie McCovey will play left field in place of Kuenn and Tom Haller will replace Ed Bailey as catcher. The awakened Cepeda will stay in the line-up.



AFTER THE VICTORY — San Francisco's pitching ace Billy Pierce, left, and first baseman Orlando Cepeda, munch happily on melons in dressing room after the Giants whipped the New York Yankees in the sixth game of the World Series yesterday at Candlestick Park. Pierce held the Yankees to three hits. The win gave Pierce a 13-0 mark at the San Francisco park this season and squared the fall classic at three wins for each club. Cepeda accounted for 3 of the 10 hits made by the Giants and batted in two runs. (AP Photofax)

Final Series Game Is Quoted At Even Money

NEW YORK (UPI) —The oddsmakers threw up their hands Monday and made the seventh game of the World Series Tuesday an even-money wagering proposition.

The "pick 'em" odds hold no matter who the starting pitchers are.

Eight Teams Join Faculty Cage Loop

An eight-team Faculty Basketball League was formed last night at a meeting at Beall High School.

The teams are Bruce-Valley combined, Ridgeley, Beall, Allegany, Fort Hill, Mt. Savage, Frostburg State and the Allegany County Physical Education Staff.

There will be 80 participants in the league games.

Another meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m., at Beall High School.

Terps Play Miami

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)— The University of Maryland football team stressed passing Monday as they held a light workout in preparation for their game Friday against Miami.

Maryland, undefeated so far this season, goes against the Hurricanes under the lights in Miami's Orange Bowl Friday night.

Hardest In Month And Half Dark Says Cepeda's Shots

Calls Wild Throw Big Play; McCovey And Haller Play Today

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— "Those were the hardest shots Orlando Cepeda has hit in a month and a half," San Francisco Giants Manager Alvin Dark said of his batting hero in Monday's sixth World Series game.

There was also plenty of praise for Billy Pierce, the 35-year-old left-hander who limited the Yankees to three hits.

Yet Dark didn't think Billy was throwing as hard as he did in beating the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-0 in their first playoff game.

Pierce Was Great

"He pitched great and was putting the pitches where he wanted them," Dark added.

Pierce declared, "The home run pitched to Roger Maris in the fifth inning was a curve. I threw him a fast ball to strike him out in the ninth. You can't relax a minute with the Yankees."

Both Pierce and Cepeda benefited from the rain-enforced rest which caused a 3-day delay in this sixth game that tied the World Series at 3-3.

"We won, so I have to say the long rest helped," Pierce declared, while admitting he was worried on long hits to center field by Mickey Mantle in the second inning and Bill Skowron in the third.

"I turned around and looked at Willie and when I saw he wasn't too perturbed, I didn't worry so much," the veteran hurler added.

Rest Helped Cepeda

"I didn't swing any different than I have been," said Cepeda who has been one of the Series goats until now. "But with the rest I felt good, I felt strong. I used a 35-ounce bat instead of a 33.

"The rest made me feel good. I didn't feel tired anymore."

Cepeda belted a single, double and single in his first three times at bat, knocking in two runs in the 5-2 triumph.

With the hitting surge, Cepeda won a starting job for the final game, facing right-hander Bill Terry. Cepeda was benched the last time the Giants faced Terry.

Wild Throw Big Play

The Giants' manager thought the throw into center field by Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford in the fourth inning probably was the big play of the game.

"If I were a pitcher, that would have had to give me a mental letdown," Dark explained.

With one out, Felipe Alou on second and Willie Mays on first, Ford threw on a pickoff play. No fielder was near, and the ball went into right center field. Alou scored and Mays went to third. Cepeda's double followed.

The Giants dressing room was happy but subdued. Dark called a special post-game batting practice for Davenport, Haller, McCovey and Matty Alou to sharpen eyes which may have been dulled by the rain layoff.

Bothered By Cold

Jack Sanford, who will start the seventh game, said he still has the cold which has bothered him throughout the Series.

"But I feel pretty good," he declared. "I sure wish it was game time now, instead of tomorrow.

"I'm about as nervous as I was before my first start in the Series. I'm sure thinking about it—this is something that happens once in a lifetime."

Ralph Houk Never Considered Using Pinch-Hitter For Ford

Terry, Sanford Hurl Today; Wild Throw Explained By Ford

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "He pitched a good ball game. We didn't get any hits. That's about all there was to it."

That was New York Yankee Manager Ralph Houk's calm comment on the 5-2 defeat Monday by the San Francisco Giants and Billy Pierce, who set the Yanks down with three hits.

Houk added, "Whitey Ford pitched good, too, but the ball seemed to go into the holes for them."

Terry To Pitch

The Yankee manager said Ralph Terry, his 23-game winner who is 1-1 in the rain-delayed Series, will face the Giants' Jack Sanford in the seventh game, for the third time since the Series opened on Oct. 4.

Houk has been high in his praise of Sanford, who shut out the Yankees on two hits in the second game and pitched a strong losing effort in the fifth game in New York. But he reminded his questioners:

"We beat him the last time."

Roger Maris, who hit his first home run of the Series for the first Yankee run, said he hit a curve ball. Maris said the field drenched by the worst October storm in San Francisco since 1904, did not affect the game. "It was okay to run in," he said, "although short pop flies just stuck in the ground where they landed."

Mickey Hitting .150

Mickey Mantle, who went hitless in four trips to drop his Series record to 2-22, a .150 mark, was not very communicative either.

"I don't want to say a damn' thing about anything," he said.

Most of the other Yankees were quiet, too, although there was little gloom in the clubhouse of the World Series veterans.

Ford, who started his third game and took his first defeat, said:

"I felt fine, and I thought I looked good. I'm ready to come back tomorrow and work in relief if I'm needed."

The ace left-hander, knocked out in the fifth inning, was the first Yankee to get dressed. He scooted out of the clubhouse quickly.

Explains Wild Throw

Ford said of the wild throw he made in the fourth inning in an attempt to pick Felipe Alou off second base, "I tried to hold up the throw when I saw I had no play. I called the play and went through the count, but when I wheeled and then tried to check the throw, the ball flew out of my hand into the outfield."

Houk said he "never thought for a minute" about pinch hitting for Ford in the fifth inning, when he came to bat with two out, two men on base and the Giants leading 3-1.

"I had four more bats, and Ford is my best pitcher. I'm not going to take out a pitcher like Ford with that many innings left."

Four Giants Take Batting Practice After Sixth Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Manager Alvin Dark sent four men back to the field for batting practice after the San Francisco Giants beat the New York Yankees, 5-2, in the sixth game of the World Series Monday.

The men taking their cuts were third baseman Jim Davenport, outfielder Matty Alou, catcher Tom Haller, and utility man Willie McCovey.

"Some of them haven't swung a bat for a week," said Dark. "And they'll probably see action tomorrow. So I thought they should get in a workout."

Beall Eyes First Place, To Play At Bruce Today

Needs Win Or Tie To Reach Top; Aggies Visit Mt. Savage

Beall and Bruce, the oldest rivals in the W.M.I. Soccer League, are slated to tangle today at 4 p. m., in an important game at Westernport as the first half of the season draws to a close.

Coach "Ebbie" Finzel's Mountaineers occupy the runner-up spot at the present time with a 2-0-1 record and five points. The Mountain City eleven can take over the league leadership by scoring a victory and can deadlock Valley High School for first place by battling the Bulldogs to a tie. Valley is setting the pace with two wins, two ties and six poins. Bruce is deadlocked with Flintstone for third place at 1-2-0.

Bob Kirk and Clifton Van Roby will officiate in today's game.

In the second game on tap for today, the Flintstone Aggies will play the Indians at Mt. Savage. Mt. Savage is winless to date with two losses and a 2-2 tie with Valley.

John Fatkin and Bob Nelson will handle this game.

Today's games are the last until Tuesday, October 23 when the second half of the season gets under way.

Charlotte Hall's Injured Gridder Is Satisfactory

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Vaughn Forrest, 16-year-old high school student who was injured in a football game Saturday, was reported in satisfactory condition in Prince Georges General Hospital Monday.

Forrest was hurt in the opening kickoff of a game between Charlotte Hall Military Academy and Lackey High School at Indian Head. He underwent surgery for repair of his right kidney.

It had been feared at first that the kidney might have to be removed. A hospital spokesman said Monday, however, that repair surgery had been performed and that the Baltimore youth was in satisfactory condition.

Forrest, an alternating quarterback on the Charlotte Hall team, was hit by either a knee or a foot as he threw a block, his coach said. The school is at Charlotte Hall, St. Marys County.

Lackey won the game 7-6.

Northwestern And Wisconsin Crash Top Ten

Penn State, Purdue Ousted; LSU Moves Into Fourth Place

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Texas Longhorns nudged Alabama's Crimson Tide out of the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press' weekly poll of college football teams Tuesday. Texas became the third team to hold a shaky lead in the weekly ratings. Alabama had replaced Ohio State the week before.

Coach Darrell Royal's Longhorns, second in last week's poll, won its fourth straight game Saturday by edging Oklahoma 9-6, while Alabama also won its fourth in a row. Alabama had its troubles before downing Houston, 14-3. A week before, Mississippi had crushed Houston 40-7.

Texas Leads 458-437

Texas, although receiving only 21 first place ballots to 24 for Alabama, moved into the top spot on the basis of heavier supiort in the second, third and fourth place balloting. The special panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave Texas 458 points, to 437 for Alabama, the defending national champions.

Two teams dropped clear out of the top ten—Penn State and Purdue. Penn State, No. 3 last week, was beaten by Army, 9-6, while little Miami of Ohio humbled Purdue 10-7. Purdue was No. 9 a week ago.

Northwestern and Wisconsin crashed into the ratings, taking over the No. 8 and No. 10 spots, respectively. Wisconsin defeated Notre Dame 17-8, while Northwestern rolled over Minnesota 34-22.

Southern California, idle Saturday, advanced from fourth to third place, while Louisiana State hopped from sixth to fourth after beating Miami of Florida 17-3.

Buckeyes Are Sixth

Mississippi, which also had the week off, held on to fifth place. Ohio State, knocked from first place to tenth in last week's poll after being upset 9-7 by UCLA, came back to pulverize Illinois 51-15. The Buckeyes advanced to sixth spot.

Arkansas remained unbeaten after grabbing a high scoring decision over Baylor, 28-21, and moved up from eighth to seventh place. Washington, No. 7 a week ago, had a close call, beating Oregon State 14-13. The Huskies went from seventh place to the No. 9 spot.

The top ten, based on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 point system with first place votes in parentheses:

1.	Texas (21)	4	0	0	458
2.	Alabama (24)	4	0	0	437
3.	Southern California	3	0	0	302
4.	Louisiana State	3	0	1	273
5.	Mississippi	3	0	0	256
6.	Ohio State (2)	2	1	0	218
7.	Arkansas (1)	4	0	0	196
8.	Northwestern (3)	3	0	0	165
9.	Washington	3	0	1	143
10.	Wisconsin	3	0	0	128

Others receiving votes: Georgia Tech, Michigan State, UCLA (1), Penn State, Missouri, Oregon, West Virginia, Maryland, Duke, Army, Auburn, Nebraska, Miami (Ohio), Kansas.

Army Grabs Lead In Lambert Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) —Army, an upset winner over Penn State last Saturday, Tuesday replaced the Nittany Lions in the voting for the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of eastern major college football supremacy.

The Cadets received six of the eight ballots cast by sportswriters, coaches and sportscasters. Penn State drew the other two first-place votes to wind up second in the voting.

Rounding out the top 10 in order were Holy Cross, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Navy, Princeton, Boston College and Villanova.

Grass Is Mowed For Series Final

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Immediately after Monday's sixth game of the World Series, groundskeeper Matty Schwabb began mowing the soggy and overgrown outfield grass.

Matty faced a long task, for he had to trudge behind the mower. The machine normally used—with its comfortable seat — was too hea., (700 pounds) to be use on a field soaked by three days of rain.

Two assistants were tramping behind Matty—with hand-operated grass picker-uppers.

Texas Longhorns Nudge Alabama From No.1 In AP Football Poll

Beall Eyes First Place, To Play At Bruce Today

Needs Win Or Tie To Reach Top; Aggies Visit Mt. Savage

Beall and Bruce, the oldest rivals in the W.M.I. Soccer League, are slated to tangle today at 4 p. m., in an important game at Westernport as the first half of the season draws to a close.

Coach "Ebbie" Finzel's Mountaineers occupy the runner-up spot at the present time with a 2-0-1 record and five points. The Mountain City eleven can take over the league leadership by scoring a victory and can deadlock Valley High School for first place by battling the Bulldogs to a tie. Valley is setting the pace with two wins, two ties and six poins. Bruce is deadlocked with Flintstone for third place at 1-2-0.

Bob Kirk and Clifton Van Roby will officiate in today's game.

In the second game on tap for today, the Flintstone Aggies will play the Indians at Mt. Savage. Mt. Savage is winless to date with two losses and a 2-2 tie with Valley.

John Fatkin and Bob Nelson will handle this game.

Today's games are the last until Tuesday, October 23 when the second half of the season gets under way.

Charlotte Hall's Injured Gridder Is Satisfactory

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Vaughn Forrest, 16-year-old high school student who was injured in a football game Saturday, was reported in satisfactory condition in Prince Georges General Hospital Monday.

Forrest was hurt in the opening kickoff of a game between Charlotte Hall Military Academy and Lackey High School at Indian Head. He underwent surgery for repair of his right kidney.

It had been feared at first that the kidney might have to be removed. A hospital spokesman said Monday, however, that repair surgery had been performed and that the Baltimore youth was in satisfactory condition.

Forrest, an alternating quarterback on the Charlotte Hall team, was hit by either a knee or a foot as he threw a block, his coach said. The school is at Charlotte Hall, St. Marys County.

Lackey won the game 7-6.

Maglie, York, Okrie Fired By Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI) —Newly appointed Boston Red Sox manager Johnny Pesky Monday announced the firing of three of the four coaches who served the club under manager Mike Higgins.

Pesky announced that only third base coach Billy Herman would be retained for the 1963 season and said that pitching coach Sal Maglie, first base coach Rudy York and coach Len Okrie all would be replaced for next season.

Northwestern And Wisconsin Crash Top Ten

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Texas Longhorns nudged Alabama's Crimson Tide out of the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press' weekly poll of college football teams Tuesday. Texas became the third team to hold a shaky lead in the weekly ratings. Alabama had replaced Ohio State the week before.

Coach Darrell Royal's Longhorns, second in last week's poll, won its fourth straight game Saturday by edging Oklahoma 9-6, while Alabama also won its fourth in a row. Alabama had its troubles before downing Houston, 14-3. A week before, Mississippi had crushed Houston 40-7.

Texas Leads 458-437

Texas, although receiving only 21 first place ballots to 24 for Alabama, moved into the top spot on the basis of heavier supiort in the second, third and fourth place balloting. The special panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave Texas 458 points, to 437 for Alabama, the defending national champions.

Two teams dropped clear out of the top ten—Penn State and Purdue. Penn State, No. 3 last week, was beaten by Army, 9-6, while little Miami of Ohio humbled Purdue 10-7. Purdue was No. 9 a week ago.

Northwestern and Wisconsin crashed into the ratings, taking over the No. 8 and No. 10 spots, respectively. Wisconsin defeated Notre Dame 17-8, while Northwestern rolled over Minnesota 34-22.

Southern California, idle Saturday, advanced from fourth to third place, while Louisiana State hopped from sixth to fourth after beating Miami of Florida 17-3.

Buckeyes Are Sixth

Mississippi, which also had the week off, held on to fifth place. Ohio State, knocked from first place to tenth in last week's poll after being upset 9-7 by UCLA, came back to pulverize Illinois 51-15. The Buckeyes advanced to sixth spot.

Arkansas remained unbeaten after grabbing a high scoring decision over Baylor, 28-21, and moved up from eighth to seventh place. Washington, No. 7 a week ago, had a close call, beating Oregon State 14-13. The Huskies went from seventh place to the No. 9 spot.

The top ten, based on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 point system with first place votes in parentheses:

1.	Texas (21)	4	0	0	458
2.	Alabama (24)	4	0	0	437
3.	Southern California	3	0	0	302
4.	Louisiana State	3	0	1	273
5.	Mississippi	3	0	0	256
6.	Ohio State (2)	2	1	0	218
7.	Arkansas (1)	4	0	0	196
8.	Northwestern (3)	3	0	0	165
9.	Washington	3	0	1	143
10.	Wisconsin	3	0	0	128

Others receiving votes: Georgia Tech, Michigan State, UCLA (1), Penn State, Missouri, Oregon, West Virginia, Maryland, Duke, Army, Auburn, Nebraska, Miami (Ohio), Kansas.

Army Grabs Lead In Lambert Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) —Army, an upset winner over Penn State last Saturday, Tuesday replaced the Nittany Lions in the voting for the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of eastern major college football supremacy.

The Cadets received six of the eight ballots cast by sportswriters, coaches and sportscasters. Penn State drew the other two first-place votes to wind up second in the voting.

Rounding out the top 10 in order were Holy Cross, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Navy, Princeton, Boston College and Villanova.

Grass Is Mowed For Series Final

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Immediately after Monday's sixth game of the World Series, groundskeeper Matty Schwabb began mowing the soggy and overgrown outfield grass.

Matty faced a long task, for he had to trudge behind the mower. The machine normally used—with its comfortable seat — was too hea., (700 pounds) to be use on a field soaked by three days of rain.

Two assistants were tramping behind Matty—with hand-operated grass picker-uppers.

Because of its poorly developed nervous system, a fish probably experiences discomfort rather than actual pain when hooked.

Stock Market Moderately Higher On Slow Turnover

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rose steadily on slow turnover Monday, finishing at their highs in most instances for a moderate gain in the averages.

Glamor items, individual specialties and a few blue chips were the best gainers and a majority of the general list followed along with improvements of fractions to a point.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index notched on 0.32. In the Dow-Jones averages, industrials climbed 3.22, rails rose 0.85 but utilities slipped 0.29.

Trading expanded to 2,640,000 shares from 2,020,000 last Friday when dealings were restricted by the Columbus Day holiday which reduced attendance on the street.

A total of 1,230 issues were traded against 1,155 in the prior session. Advances outnumbered declines 523 to 412 but new 1962 lows exceeded new highs 24 to 4.

By far the market's most active item was Howe Sound which rose 3 points to 14 on 114,100 shares. Its directors recommended holders accept a tender from a French firm for 40 per cent of its stock at $15 a share.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — All grain futures except corn and oats, which declined under hedge selling, posted firm to strong gains Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ½ to 1⅝, corn off ¼ to 1, oats unchanged to off ⅜, rye up ½ to ¾ and soybeans up ¼ to 1¼.

Wheat futures spurted sharply higher at the outset, but rye and soybeans held steady until the final half hour of trading when demand suddenly picked up.

Active short covering and commission buying of wheat followed reports that 10 million bushels of red wheat will be programmed for export under the P.L. 480 plan. Hedge sales were light.

Corn prices weakened. There was considerable selling of December by elevator interests, which the trade regarded as hedging. Several other commercial houses bought corn on the decline.

The government sold 12,967,000 bushels of corn for domestic and export during the first week of the new crop season ended Oct. 5. This compared with 9,132,000 bushels a year ago.

Oats eased in mixed trading. Commission houses generally favored the buying side.

Soybeans were mostly steady to easier before the late rally. Favorable harvest weather and bigger arrivals than a year ago caused early selling. However, country offerings were still light, and oil futures firmed. Meals were mixed.

No export sales were reported, but Norway and Formosa were expected to be in the market soon for soybeans, and dealers expected a large sale of wheat to Brazil.

Outside markets were mixed.

The U. S. visible supply of wheat decreased 2,627,000 bushels last week to 470,776,000, board of trade statisticians estimated. Corn stocks decreased 2,850,000 to 37,039,000 oats increawed 152,000 to 25,652,000, rye increased 164,000 to 5,019,000, barley decreased 389,000 to 26,206,000 and soybeans increased 1,856,000 to 13,152,000 bushels.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Stock Market Moderately Higher On Slow Turnover

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rose steadily on slow turnover Monday, finishing at their highs in most instances for a moderate gain in the averages.

Glamor items, individual specialties and a few blue chips were the best gainers and a majority of the general list followed along with improvements of fractions to a point.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index notched on 0.32. In the Dow-Jones averages, industrials climbed 3.22, rails rose 0.85 but utilities slipped 0.29.

Trading expanded to 2,640,000 shares from 2,020,000 last Friday when dealings were restricted by the Columbus Day holiday which reduced attendance on the street.

A total of 1,230 issues were traded against 1,155 in the prior session. Advances outnumbered declines 523 to 412 but new 1962 lows exceeded new highs 24 to 4.

By far the market's most active item was Howe Sound which rose 3 points to 14 on 114,100 shares. Its directors recommended holders accept a tender from a French firm for 40 per cent of its stock at $15 a share.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — All grain futures except corn and oats, which declined under hedge selling, posted firm to strong gains Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ½ to 1⅝, corn off ¼ to 1, oats unchanged to off ⅜, rye up ½ to ¾ and soybeans up ¼ to 1¼.

Wheat futures spurted sharply higher at the outset, but rye and soybeans held steady until the final half hour of trading when demand suddenly picked up.

Active short covering and commission buying of wheat followed reports that 10 million bushels of red wheat will be programmed for export under the P.L. 480 plan. Hedge sales were light.

Corn prices weakened. There was considerable selling of December by elevator interests, which the trade regarded as hedging. Several other commercial houses bought corn on the decline.

The government sold 12,967,000 bushels of corn for domestic and export during the first week of the new crop season ended Oct. 5. This compared with 9,132,000 bushels a year ago.

Oats eased in mixed trading. Commission houses generally favored the buying side.

Soybeans were mostly steady to easier before the late rally. Favorable harvest weather and bigger arrivals than a year ago caused early selling. However, country offerings were still light, and oil futures firmed. Meals were mixed.

No export sales were reported, but Norway and Formosa were expected to be in the market soon for soybeans, and dealers expected a large sale of wheat to Brazil.

Outside markets were mixed.

The U. S. visible supply of wheat decreased 2,627,000 bushels last week to 470,776,000, board of trade statisticians estimated. Corn stocks decreased 2,850,000 to 37,039,000 oats increawed 152,000 to 25,652,000, rye increased 164,000 to 5,019,000, barley decreased 389,000 to 26,206,000 and soybeans increased 1,856,000 to 13,152,000 bushels.

Speakers Air Revision Vote To Young GOP

The Young Republican Club of Allegany County presented a program of speakers who discussed the nine referendums which will appear on the November 6 ballot at its meeting last week at Shrine Country Club.

One of the more important referendums discussed was No. 7 which is a proposed legislative revision of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation law.

Speaking in favor of the proposal was Frank McGraw, counsel for Victor Products Corp., of Hagerstown, who spoke as a member of the "Citizens Committee of Maryland of the unemployment compensation law."

Andrew Lewis, area director of COPE, spoke against the proposal and presented organized labor's views.

William Sullivan, program chairman, spoke on the other eight referendums. He particularly emphasized No. 6 which pertains to the creation of the new Eighth Congressional District in Maryland.

Sullivan said the proposed change creates the new Eighth Congressional District out of Prince Georges and Howard counties, which would result in a vast discrepancy in the population make-up of all the Maryland Congressional districts. It was pointed out that the new proposed Eighth District would be more advantageous to the Democrat party as both Prince Georges and Howard County are predominantly Democrat.

The other portion of the club's program was GOP partisan as Donald W. Mason, vice president of the Maryland Federation of Young GOP Clubs, spoke on all the campaign issues — national, state and local, that the Republicans should emphasize during the campaign in persuading the voters to vote Republican.

Kenneth Lowe, vice chairman of the Allegany County GOP Campaign, related campaign plans and announced the schedule for the 13 rallies to be held throughout the county.

Gerald Barb and Mrs. Leah Hafer, members of the State Central Committee, spoke briefly. Mrs. Sara Rank and Akbar Brinsmake reported on the club's recent benefit dance.

Robert L. Lewis, president, announced that the club is making another substantial contribution to the State Central Committee for the vote campaign.

Porcupine Mountain State Park, in Michigan, is said to be the largest state park in the United States.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	2 ♠	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

West found that leading was a constant burden in today's hand. He was obliged to lend considerable assistance to declarer's cause, and the latter was quick to put it to his own use.

The first round of bidding is reasonable. Had the vulnerability conditions been less favorable for East and West, North would probably have made a penalty double of West's two spade overcall. Perhaps a wiser choice would have been a simple competitive raise to three clubs inasmuch as North has nothing in either red suit.

South's three spade call announces first round control of the adverse suit, and presents partner with an opportunity to show a secondary holding in one of the unbid suits. When North merely returns to four clubs, however, South should content himself with a game commitment. He has too many losers to contemplate a slam.

West opened the king of spades since he feared that a lead from one of the red suits might present declarer with a trick. The ace of spades was played from dummy and South discarded the deuce of hearts. Declarer continued with the jack of spades and, discarded another small heart. West was in once more and still fearful that a shift would ride into a major tenace, he played another spade. North's 10 held the trick and declarer threw the queen of hearts.

Declarer led a heart to the blank ace in his hand and reentered the dummy with the eight of clubs in order to ruff a heart with the ace of trumps. A small club to the nine permitted South to trump out West's king of hearts, and establish North's eight as the master card of the suit. The last trump was drawn as South entered dummy with the queen of clubs, and he discarded his queen of diamonds on the good heart.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 12 years old. My parents have a fault that bothers me something terrible. They talk with food in their mouths at the dinner table. They also chew with their mouths wide open which is about the crudest thing a person can do.

I would like to know how to correct them. Dining at home is becoming a very unpleasant experience for me.

WELL MANNERED GIRL

Dear Girl: How nice that you know how to keep YOUR mouth closed at the table. Please take my advice and keep it closed away from the table, too.

Far more serious than talking with food in your mouth, is talking out of turn. Your parents perhaps did not have an opportunity to learn some of the fine points of etiquette. They must have some admirable qualities to have raised such an elegant young lady as you, so why don't you emphasize their good points and overlook the rest?

Dear Ann Landers: We are worried parents. Our daughter is a good-looking young woman of 20, she has a pleasant personality and did fairly well in school. Pat excelled in athletics and at one time had her heart set on teaching physical education, but she quit college after two years to take a traveling job with a sporting goods firm.

Now Pat has the crazy idea she wants to join the Armed Forces. We don't know any girls in the service, but we've always had the notion they come from low-class families and that their morals leave much to be desired.

Since we have no authentic information we are writing to you for guidance. What are your ideas of women in the service?

T. AND R. F.

Dear T. and R. F.: In the absence of authentic information it's unfortunate that some people believe the worst. Regardless of the career a girl may choose, she maintains the same moral standards she learned at home.

To qualify for the services a young woman must meet rigid physical, mental and moral requirements. Careful screening and close supervision insures first-rate conduct. Girls who fail to measure up are handed their walking papers.

The women's services offer pleasant living quarters, well-balanced meals, medical and dental care, smart uniforms, economic security, and excellent opportunities for advancement.

I recommend the Armed Forces for the young woman who wants to see some new faces, get out of a rut, and at the same time serve her country. Information can be obtained without obligation by checking your phone directory under U. S. Government for the nearest Army, Navy, Air Force or Marine recruiting station.

Dear Ann Landers: The 17-year-old son of our dear friends was arrested last week for stealing a car. We were shocked beyond words and so was everyone else in our social circle.

The family is prominent and extremely well-to-do. The boy had access to his mother's car as well as his dad's. All he had to do was ask. Why in the world would a boy do a thing like this? He is not stupid. His parents are heartbroken and nobody can figure out what got into the lad. Can you explain it?

QUESTION MARK

Dear Question Mark: Some kids steal cars (and other things) because they don't have anything else to do. "Kicks," they call it.

A boy who would rather steal a car than ask to borrow one is undoubtedly looking for excitement.

When children of prominent families break the law, usually there is a punitive motive involved. They wish to humiliate and hurt their parents, and this is a sure way.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Speakers Air Revision Vote To Young GOP

The Young Republican Club of Allegany County presented a program of speakers who discussed the nine referendums which will appear on the November 6 ballot at its meeting last week at Shrine Country Club.

One of the more important referendums discussed was No. 7 which is a proposed legislative revision of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation law.

Speaking in favor of the proposal was Frank McGraw, counsel for Victor Products Corp., of Hagerstown, who spoke as a member of the "Citizens Committee of Maryland of the unemployment compensation law."

Andrew Lewis, area director of COPE, spoke against the proposal and presented organized labor's views.

William Sullivan, program chairman, spoke on the other eight referendums. He particularly emphasized No. 6 which pertains to the creation of the new Eighth Congressional District in Maryland.

Sullivan said the proposed change creates the new Eighth Congressional District out of Prince Georges and Howard counties, which would result in a vast discrepancy in the population make-up of all the Maryland Congressional districts. It was pointed out that the new proposed Eighth District would be more advantageous to the Democrat party as both Prince Georges and Howard County are predominantly Democrat.

The other portion of the club's program was GOP partisan as Donald W. Mason, vice president of the Maryland Federation of Young GOP Clubs, spoke on all the campaign issues — national, state and local, that the Republicans should emphasize during the campaign in persuading the voters to vote Republican.

Kenneth Lowe, vice chairman of the Allegany County GOP Campaign, related campaign plans and announced the schedule for the 13 rallies to be held throughout the county.

Gerald Barb and Mrs. Leah Hafer, members of the State Central Committee, spoke briefly. Mrs. Sara Rank and Akbar Brinsmake reported on the club's recent benefit dance.

Robert L. Lewis, president, announced that the club is making another substantial contribution to the State Central Committee for the vote campaign.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	2 ♠	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

West found that leading was a constant burden in today's hand. He was obliged to lend considerable assistance to declarer's cause, and the latter was quick to put it to his own use.

The first round of bidding is reasonable. Had the vulnerability conditions been less favorable for East and West, North would probably have made a penalty double of West's two spade overcall. Perhaps a wiser choice would have been a simple competitive raise to three clubs inasmuch as North has nothing in either red suit.

South's three spade call announces first round control of the adverse suit, and presents partner with an opportunity to show a secondary holding in one of the unbid suits. When North merely returns to four clubs, however, South should content himself with a game commitment. He has too many losers to contemplate a slam.

West opened the king of spades since he feared that a lead from one of the red suits might present declarer with a trick. The ace of spades was played from dummy and South discarded the deuce of hearts. Declarer continued with the jack of spades and, discarded another small heart. West was in once more and still fearful that a shift would ride into a major tenace, he played another spade. North's 10 held the trick and declarer threw the queen of hearts.

Declarer led a heart to the blank ace in his hand and reentered the dummy with the eight of clubs in order to ruff a heart with the ace of trumps. A small club to the nine permitted South to trump out West's king of hearts, and establish North's eight as the master card of the suit. The last trump was drawn as South entered dummy with the queen of clubs, and he discarded his queen of diamonds on the good heart.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 12 years old. My parents have a fault that bothers me something terrible. They talk with food in their mouths at the dinner table. They also chew with their mouths wide open which is about the crudest thing a person can do.

I would like to know how to correct them. Dining at home is becoming a very unpleasant experience for me.

WELL MANNERED GIRL

Dear Girl: How nice that you know how to keep YOUR mouth closed at the table. Please take my advice and keep it closed away from the table, too.

Far more serious than talking with food in your mouth, is talking out of turn. Your parents perhaps did not have an opportunity to learn some of the fine points of etiquette. They must have some admirable qualities to have raised such an elegant young lady as you, so why don't you emphasize their good points and overlook the rest?

Dear Ann Landers: We are worried parents. Our daughter is a good-looking young woman of 20, she has a pleasant personality and did fairly well in school. Pat excelled in athletics and at one time had her heart set on teaching physical education, but she quit college after two years to take a traveling job with a sporting goods firm.

Now Pat has the crazy idea she wants to join the Armed Forces. We don't know any girls in the service, but we've always had the notion they come from low-class families and that their morals leave much to be desired.

Since we have no authentic information we are writing to you for guidance. What are your ideas of women in the service?

T. AND R. F.

Dear T. and R. F.: In the absence of authentic information it's unfortunate that some people believe the worst. Regardless of the career a girl may choose, she maintains the same moral standards she learned at home.

To qualify for the services a young woman must meet rigid physical, mental and moral requirements. Careful screening and close supervision insures first-rate conduct. Girls who fail to measure up are handed their walking papers.

The women's services offer pleasant living quarters, well-balanced meals, medical and dental care, smart uniforms, economic security, and excellent opportunities for advancement.

I recommend the Armed Forces for the young woman who wants to see some new faces, get out of a rut, and at the same time serve her country. Information can be obtained without obligation by checking your phone directory under U. S. Government for the nearest Army, Navy, Air Force or Marine recruiting station.

Dear Ann Landers: The 17-year-old son of our dear friends was arrested last week for stealing a car. We were shocked beyond words and so was everyone else in our social circle.

The family is prominent and extremely well-to-do. The boy had access to his mother's car as well as his dad's. All he had to do was ask. Why in the world would a boy do a thing like this? He is not stupid. His parents are heartbroken and nobody can figure out what got into the lad. Can you explain it?

QUESTION MARK

Dear Question Mark: Some kids steal cars (and other things) because they don't have anything else to do. "Kicks," they call it.

A boy who would rather steal a car than ask to borrow one is undoubtedly looking for excitement.

When children of prominent families break the law, usually there is a punitive motive involved. They wish to humiliate and hurt their parents, and this is a sure way.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Valley Road Youth Dies In Hunting Mishap

Buddy's Gun Goes Off Accidentally

A Valley Road youth died last evening in Sacred Heart Hospital as a result of a hunting accident in Bowman's Addition near Jones' Junk Yard. The accident occurred about 6:45 p. m.

State police said Truman Livingood, 17, and a companion Ralph Bobo, also 17, both of RD 1, Valley Road, were hunting in the Bowman's Addition section. While crossing a briar patch and barbed wire fence, Bobo's 410 gauge shotgun became entangled in the briar and discharged, peppering Livingood with pellets.

The Livingood youth was taken in the Bowmans Addition Fire Company ambulance to Sacred Heart Hospital, where he died about 7 p. m.

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, deputy county medical examiner, said death was accidental and due to hemmorhage of the chest and abdomen caused by penetration of the shotgun pellets.

State Police Sgt. Harry Bosley and Trooper Daniel J. Kerr investigated the accident.

Small Pushes Attack On Debate Issue

BALTIMORE (AP) — Frank Small Jr., Republican contender for governor in the November election, said Monday that Gov. Tawes is acknowledging "defeat before he has come out to fight" in the governor's refusal to debate him.

"I am terribly disappointed and the public, too, must be," Small said. "After all, they would have been the arbiters. Gov. Tawes has let them down."

Tawes said flatly Monday that he had no intention of debating Small before the election.

"He has said he is going to campaign on the accomplishments of his closing administration," Small said in a statement issued at his campaign headquarters here. "I must say I am happy to hear that. In that event I should win by a landslide.

"On the issue of slot machines in four Southern Maryland counties, I have declared-and I repeat —I have not received a cent of slot machine money, and I have challenged Gov. Tawes to make the same statement," Small said. "I am still awaiting his answer. What will it be? Like his refusal to debate, no answer?"
